

U.S. STICKS TO DISARMMENT STAND

GENEVA ACTION TO INFLUENCE U.S. CONGRESS

Conference Abroad Vitality
Important to Next Session at Washington

MAY UPSET CAL'S PLANS

If Agreement Fails Larger
Navy Group May Force
Larger Appropriations

Washington—Although it is too early to know whether an agreement can be reached at Geneva to limit naval construction, members of congress are aware that what happens in the present conference abroad will vitally influence the course of legislation here.

President Coolidge lost control of his own party in congress on the naval issue and while he did not fail altogether, he did not succeed in keeping congress from voting larger expenditures than he recommended. The retention of the budget in the next congress requires that the naval expansionists shall not be able to override the executive recommendations. The president feels that a cut in taxes should be applied and that the country must be persuaded to economize still further on naval building. The Mississippi flood has added an unexpected item to the list that must be considered. So if the Geneva conference fails, it is inevitable that the larger navy group in congress will be able to knock the executive budget into a cocked hat so far as the navy is concerned.

IN NEED OF ECONOMY

The American policy at Geneva has been carefully prepared with these considerations in mind. Fortunately for America, both Great Britain and Japan are also in urgent need of further economy and the United States may find before the conference is over that the latter two are willing to go even further toward scrapping existing vessels than is the United States.

With the world movement toward peace growing stronger, in the opinion of the president, the reduction of armaments is in the line of great confidence in goodwill and the rule of reason in settling international disputes. Immediately after the conference of 1921-22 there developed an era of good feeling between the United States and Japan which continued until congress revived old scores by passing an immigration bill with an objectionably worded clause.

The earthquake gave Japan a serious economic situation with which her people are still struggling so that so far as arming against Japan for possible emergencies the United States government feels that contingencies of conflict of this kind are even more remote than ever before. Relations between the United States and Great Britain are better than they have been in the present generation. Why, then, American officials are saying, should large navies be maintained by Japan, Great Britain and the United States, virtually against each other? By preserving the 5-5-3 principle adopted as a basis of calculation in the Washington conference by the three big naval powers, the hope is that an agreement may be reached. The naval experts will debate at length perhaps what 5-5-3 really means as applied to definite classes of ships and in the end the diplomats may have to settle the question, but the conference has opened under circumstances that indicate a new era in which all is important factor at this stage of the proceedings.

FOUR WOMEN BURNED TO DEATH IN EAST

Flames Sweep Dwelling of Wealthy Furniture Man—
Three Firemen Hurt

Boston—(AP)—A fire, which resulted in the death of four women and caused injuries to three firemen, swept the home of William L. Shearer, Jr., vice president of a large furniture company in the Back Bay district Wednesday morning. The dead were Janet Shearer, 16, daughter of Mr. Shearer; Bettie Howes, 16, daughter of Mrs. Shearer by a previous marriage; Alice Scott, 32, a housemaid, and a cook named Helen McLaughlin.

Mrs. Annie Dickson, a governess who was believed to have discovered the fire, was the only person in the building. She was rescued, partially overcome while clinging to a fourth floor balcony.

The two girls and the cook were burned to death. Alice Scott was killed when she jumped from a fourth story window to the pavement. The fire started in the basement from an electric iron which had been left on a shelf.

JONES WILL DEFEND BRITISH GOLF TITLE

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—The Atlanta Journal said Wednesday afternoon that Bobby Jones has announced he will defend his British open golf title at St. Andrews and will sail from New York on Saturday for Scotland.

GETS NEW TRIAL

RUSSELL T. SCOTT

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Russell T. Scott, 33, sentenced to hang, was granted a new lease on life Wednesday when the Illinois Supreme court reversed and remanded his case for a new trial in the criminal court of Cook co.

Chicago—(AP)—The state supreme court decision Wednesday, remanding his case for a new trial, was the fourth time Russell T. Scott's life had been saved. On April 2, 1924, he was arrested for slaying Joseph Maurer, a clerk in the robbery of a drug store, opposite Chicago's city hall.

POSSES DRAW RING AROUND 35 CONVICTS

35 Prisoners Believed to Be Surrounded After Escape from Texas Prison

Houston, Texas—(AP)—Thirty-five long term white convicts who escaped from the Ferguson State prison farm near Madisonville, 50 miles north of here, at midnight Tuesday night, were believed to have been surrounded Wednesday morning in the densely wooded Trinity river valley, near their camp.

Guards from the prison camp were reinforced by volunteers from all sections of Madison co., called by farm authorities to assist in the man hunt. Most of the prisoners were serving long terms. Many were described as desperate characters.

FEAR WIRES CUT

All efforts to communicate with the farm by telephone failed, indicating the convicts cut all wires. So far as could be learned no one was injured in the break.

Prison officials said they anticipated little difficulty in capturing the men. They declared the dogs would be able to trail the prisoners and that with the large force of guards and volunteers available it was only a question of starving the fugitives into surrender.

A messenger from the farm told police here that the fugitives were unarmed. He said they sawed through the side of their bunk house without attracting attention.

MRS. WRIGHT CONSIDERS OFFER BY HER HUSBAND

Madison—(AP)—Miriam Noel Wright is considering the "peace terms" of her architect husband, Frank Lloyd Wright, attorneys for Mrs. Wright announced Wednesday. Benjamin Bull of the law firm representing the estranged wife of the architect, said he had received a wire from Mrs. Wright in California, stating she was giving consideration to the proposals outlined as a compromise.

FORM BOARD AT MILWAUKEE TO CHECK FLOODS

Permanent Organization Effected and Recommendations Adopted

Milwaukee—(AP)—Far-reaching measures to preserve the natural resources of Wisconsin were recommended Tuesday night by the Wisconsin conference on flood control and conservation, which also decided that the solution of the Mississippi flood problem is dependent upon the coordination of all phases of conservation as well as construction of dikes and spillways.

A permanent organization was affected with Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, of Milwaukee, as president, and a large committee representative of the many interests of the state was named to formulate a brief setting forth Wisconsin's ideas on solution of the Mississippi flood.

Eight definite recommendations on the program in Wisconsin were made in the resolution adopted late Tuesday night. They embrace adoption of constitutional amendments to allow undertaking of a consistent plan for preservation and restoration of forests, waters and wild life; revision of statutes relating to drainage and drainage districts; amendment of water power laws so that the railroad commission may deny application for permits for dams for water power when it feels the interest of public will be better served by utilizing it for other purposes, permitting the legislature to take steps to put a conservative program into effect; passage of a bill for the restoration of the Horicon marsh; urging the legislature to appropriate an additional $10,000 annually for study of disposal of trade wastes and domestic sewage; asking the state to accept the offer of the federal government to make an airplane survey of northern Wisconsin, and approval of the lakes to gulf waterway and necessary diversion of waters, but they object to any excessive abstraction of lake waters for any use.

OTHER OFFICERS

Other officers elected were: vice president, Senator William H. Marchand; president, E. Miller, Oconto; and C. Halbert, Madison; secretary, Ernest Bruncken, secretary of the Milwaukee Harbor commission; treasurer, Mrs. John H. Martin, Green Bay.

The committee which started work Wednesday is composed of the following: Mrs. John F. Martin Green Bay, president, of the Milwaukee Women's club; Mrs. C. O'Brien, Milwaukee, president of the League of Women Voters; Mrs. Ben Hooper, Oshkosh, chairman of the legislative committee; Wisconsin Federation of Women's club; John A. Kypers, De Pere head of the Wisconsin Press association; Sherman Brown, Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin League of Women; William George Bruce, president of the Great Lakes Harbors association; Charles E. Hamerley, Shorewood, president of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities; J. J. Handley, Milwaukee, secretary-treasurer of the Wisconsin state Federation of labor; Burt A. Williams, Milwaukee, former president of the service club; Adolph Karstberg, State Railroad commission; John Earl Baker, former treasurer of the international Radice Relief commission; Louis Radice, Horicon, vice president of the Isaak Walton League; Ben F. Miller, Oconto; L. D. Eastman, Lancaster, of the legislative interim committee; J. J. Hand, railroads and transportation; D. J. Kennedy, state commander of the American Legion; George Vils, Manitowish president of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association; Dr. H. L. Russell, dean of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture; C. A. Halbert, state engineer; Judge Charles Smith, Wausau, president of the Land O' Lakes association; H. E. Eken, former attorney general of Wisconsin.

328 Barricaded Prisoners Are Facing 'Hunger Cure'

Lansing, Kans.—(AP)—State penitentiary authorities Wednesday ordered the "hunger cure" treatment continued for the 328 convicts, who barricaded themselves in the prison coal mine shortly before noon Tuesday as a protest against refusal of a cigarette issue.

While officials expressed regret that the 14 guards held in the mine by the strikers would also suffer from hunger, they counted fears of relatives that the guards would be injured or molested in any way. The multitudes neared the first 24 hours of self-imprisonment early Wednesday.

Inspired by the success of their companions in overpowering the mine guards and blocking the shaft at the 29 foot level shortly before noon Tuesday, several prisoners in B. Cell house Tuesday night started a riot. Although they overpowered their guards and locked them up, the convicts quickly surrendered when extra guards appeared with riot guns and Deputy Warden R. H. Hudsouth opened fire on them with a pistol. Leaders in the fight hastened to admit guards and to free those locked in cells.

The mine was believed to have been captured without bloodshed, though

UPPER HOUSE PASSES CADDIE BILL OVER ZIMMERMAN'S VETO

Madison—(AP)—The state senate Wednesday passed over Governor Fred R. Zimmerman's veto of the Morris bill, allowing boys between the age of 12 and 14 to caddie on Wisconsin golf courses during vacation periods.

The bill was passed by an exact two-thirds majority the vote necessary to override a veto. Senator Morris, author of the bill spoke at length on the floor of the senate, criticizing the governor's action in vetoing the bill. The Milwaukee senator said he wanted to pay his respects to Governor Zimmerman and declared "there is no use paying good money to see a vaudeville show when one can read the the governor's veto messages."

The executives reasons for vetoing the bill were not logical, he said, since his principal objection was to night work.

"Who ever saw anybody playing golf at 8 o'clock at night?" Senator Morris asked.

MINE OWNERS MOVE TO OUST WORKERS FROM THEIR HOUSES

Begin Court Action to Evict
Miners from Company-owned Dwellings

Pittsburg, Pa.—(AP)—Leaders of the United Mine Workers Wednesday prepared to combat a "food blockade" they alleged police of the Pittsburg Terminal corporation have established at Mollenauer, a mining town in an effort to oust union miners from houses owned by the company. Proceedings brought by the company to evict the miners now are pending in state superior court, with a possibility that no decision will be reached before next winter.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, said Tuesday that the company police have declared an embargo against all deliveries from Pittsburg state superior court, with a possibility that no decision will be reached before next winter.

WOULD REGAIN HOUSES

The Terminal coal corporation, which owns eight mines in the Pittsburg district, has been seeking to regain possession of its houses for months. With the suspension of operations in union bituminous mines April 1, the company announced it would reopen its mines under a non-union system. Its Coverdale mine was reopened April 26.

The legal fight over occupancy of the houses began when the company filed eviction proceedings against some of the union miners at Coverdale.

As each batch of eviction suits was filed, union counsel gained a respite through some counter-court action. Eventually all of the eviction proceedings were carried to the superior court by the union. The court will not convene until fall and a decision may not be handed down for some time after the session begins.

DEMPSY CONFERS WITH TEX RICKARD ON BOUT

New York—Jack Dempsey Wednesday came to terms with George L. Rickard for a "comeback" bout with Jack Sharkey at the Yankee Stadium, New York, July 21. The financial arrangements were not announced.

New York—(AP)—With his movements shrouded in secrecy, Jack Dempsey arrived in New York shortly after 11 o'clock Wednesday morning for a conference with Tex Rickard, looking to a bout with Jack Sharkey in July.

Accompanied by his wife, Estelle Taylor, Dempsey motored from Washington, Del., and went to the Belmont hotel where he used the kitchen entrance to reach an apartment he had reserved. It was understood that he wished to avoid possible meetings with press servers in connection with pending litigation in which he is a defendant.

PASTOR IS EXONERATED IN DEATH OF YOUNG BOY

Jamesville—(AP)—The Rev. A. C. Zelinger, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church here, was exonerated from criminal action by a coroner's jury Tuesday at the inquest into the death of William Koch, 12, Milton Junction, killed by the minister's car recently.

HELEN WILLS STILL ON MARCH TO TITLE

Wimbledon—(AP)—Miss Helen Wills, California tennis star, Wednesday ended the third round of the Wimbledon women's singles championship, defeating Miss S. C. Lumley Ellis of England, 6-3, 6-2.

VOTE TO FREE FARMER FROM PRODUCE TAX

Assembly Concurs in Senate
Bill to Exempt Producer in Wisconsin

Madison—(AP)—The state assembly Wednesday concurred in a senate bill, introduced for the interim committee, which exempts from taxation practically all farm products in the hands of producers, including cheese.

The bill, by Senator Boldt, in its original form called for the exemption of dairy products only but several amendments enlarged its scope. It had been refused a third reading by the lower house, but on the motion of Assemblyman Lawson the vote by which this was refused was reconsidered. Suspension of the rules was then voted and the measure passed.

Senator Johnson's conservation bill, calling for a six man non-paid commission was sent to the finance committee, after a motion for reconsideration of the vote by which it had been ordered to a third reading, was withdrawn by Assemblyman Hanson.

KILL SEFTENBERG BILL

The lower house refused to reconsider Assemblyman Seftenberg's bill to reestablish the personal property offset tax against income taxes. It was indefinitely postponed last week and the measure through Wednesday's action is now killed definitely. The house also refused to reconsider Assemblyman Swanson's bill to establish a bank depositors guarantee fund, indefinitely postponed last week.

Senator H. H. Smith's bill, imposing heavy penalties upon habitual criminals, was also definitely killed when reconsideration was refused.

FAIL TO INVITE LOWDEN

The charge that an invitation to ex-governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, to address a joint session of the Wisconsin legislature, might be a political move, supporting Lowden as a candidate, was made by a committee.

SUPERIOR ELECTION BILL NOW IS LAW

Zimmerman Signs Measure
Permitting Cities to Hold
Early Elections

Madison—(AP)—Governor Fred R. Zimmerman signed the Superior election bill late Tuesday, thereby making it a law.

The bill, introduced by Senator R. Bruce Johnson, permits cities to hold elections for school board members within thirty days after referendums are conducted favoring a change from the appointive to the elective method. Previously the law stated such elections could not be held for several months.

Senator Johnson's measure was drawn up for the special benefit of Superior as a result of a Central high school student strike, and antagonism toward the school board responsible for the removal of Miss Lulu J. Dickenson, veteran teacher in the high school.

The present school board, appointed by the mayor, ordered her removal and the students walked out in protest. Later a referendum was conducted, favoring a change in the method of selecting school board members and the proposal carried by a five to one vote.

Both houses of the state legislature passed the bill with little discussion before sending it to the governor for approval.

DRAMATIC CRITIC WEDS ACTRESS ON WEST COAST

Santa Anita, Calif.—(AP)—Alston Stevens, dramatic critic of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, and Florence Krus, 21-year-old Chicago actress, were married here Wednesday. Stevens, a widower, gave his age as 48.

Start It Today !

This announcement is particularly for those who have not been reading "Saint and Sinner" on the Womens Page of the Appleton Post-Crescent. Those who have been reading it don't need any admonition to continue the story which starts a new phase today. You couldn't prevent them from reading it!

But those who haven't been reading this serial should start today and get some real enjoyment.

In this story you follow Faith, the Saint and Cherry the Sinner, then relatives and lover through the most amazing complications.

Turn to the Womens Page of tonight's Post-Crescent and start reading this story.

Expect Response To Appeal For Flowers For The Sick

Have you called The Post-Crescent to tell the telephone operator that you will have flowers that can be collected Saturday morning and delivered to the sick?

If you haven't you still have time to put in your call for phone calls will be received until Friday afternoon. The cars will start about 8 o'clock Saturday morning and expect to devote the entire morning to collecting flowers which will be delivered to patients in St. Elizabeth hospital and Riverview sanatorium.

There are dozens of patients in both institutions who will be made happy by gifts of flowers and there are hundreds of people in Appleton who can give flowers from their gardens and never notice their loss.

The purpose is to give flowers to those patients who aren't receiving any or at best very few flowers to cheer them up through their weary hours. The flowers will be delivered to the hospital and the sanatorium and will be delivered to the patients by the nurses. No bouquets or flowers will be accepted for delivery to designated patients.

The only thing the nurses and the Post-Crescent ask is that the flowers be tied in bunches so they can be easily handled. The flowers should be lightly wrapped in paper to prevent damage.

This is peony time in Appleton and there should be a host of flowers available for brightening sick rooms when the Flower Cars make their first trips Saturday morning. If there is the response that is expected from big-hearted Appleton the cars will be sent out every Saturday morning as long as there are flowers to collect.

It is suggested that the flowers be cut just shortly before the arrival of the cars so they will be nice and fresh. On Friday the Post-Crescent will announce the approximate schedules of the Flower Cars on their initial trips.

Take a look at your garden tonight or tomorrow morning and determine whether you will have any flowers you can spare for the sick. If you have call 442 and tell the telephone operator. Leave your name and address and the Flower Car will be around Saturday morning.

PRACTICE "GIRTH CONTROL," DOCTOR ADVISES AMERICANS

Milwaukee—(AP)—Busy business men were advised to practice "balloon tire idea" of carrying the "girth control" and adopt the same load with less pressure by Dr. Alan Craig of Chicago. Dr. Craig spoke Tuesday night at the hospital clinical congress, holding a five day session at the auditorium.

"We are living in a rapid age," said Dr. Craig, of the American College of Physicians and Surgeons. "Speed is everywhere and the wear and tear of life is taking its toll particularly of our out business men and those engaged in commercial interests. The number of deaths from heart disease, vessel and kidney conditions has increased remarkably in the last few years. Our busy men need to acquire the balloon tire idea—carry the same load with less pressure. Many of us, especially after 40, stop growing at both ends and do all our growing in the middle. We need some real girth control. Periodic inspection of the human system to keep it functioning properly should add 10 or 15 years to the average span of life, he said.

Every 10 miles there will be a searchlight on a 65 foot steel tower via Madison or Portage." The lieutenant said. "After many careful surveys, Portage was selected, owing to greater safety." Lieutenant Creighton expects that the route will be completed as far west as La Crosse before winter.

The route is established in three sections, the first between Chicago and Milwaukee, second between Milwaukee and La Crosse, and the third between La Crosse and the Twin Cities.

Six beacons will be established between Chicago and Milwaukee, the first in Wisconsin being seven miles south of Kenosha. A beacon and landing field will be established two and one half miles northwest of Kenosha, near Somers. Another beacon will be near Franksville.

PORTAGE ROUTE SAFER

On the Milwaukee-La Crosse section, emergency fields will be on the Pease farm, near Kenosha, Col. Ambrose, two and one half miles north of Portage, Mauston and Sparta, with 19 beacon lights on the route.

SHEBOYGAN WOMAN DIES IN MILWAUKEE HOSPITAL

Milwaukee—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Michaels, 45, Sheboygan, who was visiting her sister Mrs. Jacob Schumacher, was found lying on the floor with a knife wound in her hand. She died at Emergency hospital early Wednesday morning.

Pays Tribute To Gifts Of Badgers To Medicine

Milwaukee—(AP)—There must be something in the soil and environment of Wisconsin that has developed men for the practice of medicine. Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director general of the American College of Surgeons, declared Tuesday night before the hospital clinical congress that the contribution the Badger state, of which he is a native, has made to the progress of medical science during the past generation, reading the roll of its most illustrious sons who have become captains of the medical profession.

The father of intestinal surgery, Nicholas Senn was born in Wisconsin; John E. Murphy, the great teacher and research worker in experimental medicine; Frank Billings, the outstanding internist of the United States; Dr. Joseph Bloodgood, the distinguished surgeon and surgical pathologist of Baltimore, a member of the faculty of medicine of Johns Hopkins university; Dr. Albert J. Oschner, one of the most beloved surgeons of his day; Archibald Church, the distinguished alienist, and Frank Cary, the obstetrician, all were born in Wisconsin.

Annual inspection of the human machinery particularly during the "dangerous age" after 40 when heart, kidney and cancer disease take a toll of about three out of six persons, was advocated by Dr. Martin.

All three groups of diseases are preventable and annual examinations would reveal the early signs that will take off within the next ten years at least 50 per cent of our middle-aged people, Dr. Martin declared. He urged that persons living in the "dangerous age" give themselves a birthday present by undergoing an annual examination.

"Without the support of the great Catholic church, the work of standardization of hospitals on this continent by the American College of Surgeons would have been very difficult," Dr. Martin asserted.

The great Catholic hospitals have for all time been the leaders in the development of hospitals and with the devotion of their sisterhoods, have organized and administered hospitals as has no other organization. Very few people know that 51 per cent of the hospitals of the United States and Canada are more or less under the supervision of the great Catholic church.

PLAN BEST FOR ADOPTION BY THREE POWERS

Proposals Represent Best
Thought of Administration,
Kellogg Says

MAY CHANGE DETAILS

Japanese Stipulation Unfair, to U. S. Unless Interpreted Liberally

Washington—(AP)—The state department exerted itself Wednesday to make clear that the American proposals presented at the Geneva arms conference represented the best thought of the administration at this time and that, barring the usual concessions of compromise on detail, the plan should be maintained as the basis for any final agreement.

Particular stress was placed on the Japanese stipulation that present naval strength be based on the number of effective ships, which would eliminate from consideration more than 100 American destroyers and cruisers now beyond the replacement age. If the Japanese insist upon their proposal use of the word "effective" would be accompanied by some liberal interpretation, so as not to restrict this country's naval construction.

As to the British program, the view was held that in addition to being out of order at this time it offered no tonnage limitation of auxiliary craft, which is a specific recommendation in the American plan. Despite impressions culled from Geneva that the naval limitation proposals were widely divergent, the department Wednesday clung to its optimism that an eventual agreement would be reached.

HOLD PRIVATE MEETING

General—(AP)—High Gibson, chief American delegate, held a private conversation with Admiral Viscount Saito and Viscount Ishii of Japan Wednesday on the problems between the American, British and Japanese naval limitations projects. W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, found himself unable to attend this first private meeting because of a session of the dominion delegates, but he was to see Mr. Gibson during the afternoon and have a general talking with Mr. Bridgeman discussed the general British attitude in light of the plans submitted to the conference.

DENY REPORT OF STAND

After the meeting the leaders denied a report that Viscount Saito had flatly notified the American delegate that Japan was unable to accept the 5-5-3 ratio for auxiliaries.

While the leaders were tackling the broad political aspects of the American plan, the naval experts of the three delegations met to begin a technical study of the three plans in order to ascertain the exact purport of various phrases in them. Rear Admiral Frank H. Scofield, Captain Smyth and Captain Adolphus Andrews represent the United States. The representatives of the British dominions at their meeting with Mr. Bridgeman discussed the general British attitude in light of the plans submitted to the conference.

LINDY TO DISCUSS AVIATION FUTURE

Flies to Washington to Hold Conference With Army and Navy Officials

St. Louis—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh planned to hop off Wednesday for Dayton on the first leg of a flight to Washington where he is to confer with high government officials on the matters germane to the development of aviation.

It was considered likely that he will fly an army plane. Efforts to obtain a statement regarding the details of the Washington conference were futile. It is understood that Colonel Lindbergh will meet with heads of the army, navy and commerce departments, the latter part of this week, to discuss aviation and the air's plans for the future.

Colonel Lindbergh expects to arrive at Dayton late Wednesday, where he will be the over-night guest of Orville Wright, dean of the airplane manufacturing industry. A reception has been planned by the city of Dayton. Colonel Lindbergh already has been offered the presidency of a proposed $1,000,000 airplane manufacturing company here.

MOTHER OF GOVERNOR DIES IN ILLINOIS CITY

Madison—(AP)—Mrs. Augusta Fletcher, 73, mother of Governor Fred R. Zimmerman, died early Wednesday morning at Rockford, Ill., according to word received by the state's executive.

GAS TAX REBATE BILL TABLED BY BADGER ASSEMBLY

Lower House Sustains Three Vetoes by Governor Zimmerman

Madison—(CP)—After killing for the second time Senator Keppel's minimum income tax bill, the assembly Tuesday sustained the governor's veto on three bills and transacted other important business on which the lower house refused to override the executive disapproval was the one to prevent governor's from removing appointive state officials at their pleasure, making them show cause why the official should be removed.

SET UP DEER FARMS

Assemblyman Gehrmann's bill setting up provisions enabling residents of the state to establish and operate deer farms, and imposing penalties for shooting deer in and near these farms was ordered engrossed. The committee recommendation upon it was indefinite postponement, but after a brief explanation of the measure by the author and passage of an amendment striking out some of the objectionable features of the measure, the assembly approved it.

Appropriation measures for the state highway commission and the state athletic commission were engrossed and ordered the third reading.

The Krause bill which would have set up a state board for the supervision and inspection of buildings and loan associations was killed. Senator Carroll's bill under which a committee of the legislature would be named to accompany the Land O' Lakes special train on its tour of the south, was ordered to a third reading. The senate had killed that portion of the bill which would have made an appropriation for expenses of the three senators and four assemblymen that would be sent on the trip, but an amendment was appended by the assembly placing an appropriation of $5,000 back in the bill. This amendment was killed, however, when Assemblyman Granding called the measure "nothing but a junket for the members of the committee" and declared that the "constitutional officers going on the trip, would provide ample representation for the state."

A senate bill providing for separate income tax returns for husband and wife was advanced to third reading, and the bill by the committee on state affairs to prevent sale of gasoline at retail except from filling stations, intended to stop "bootlegging" of gasoline, was passed.

DISCUSS RETIREMENT AT POSTAL CONCLAVE

Two representatives of the Appleton postoffice will attend the annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Association of Postal Supervisors at Neenah Friday and Saturday. H. J. Franck, assistant postmaster, and John B. Letter, superintendent of mails, will attend the convention.

The retirement question probably will be discussed at the sessions, it was announced. Group insurance and other topics pertaining to the postoffice will be on the program. T. W. Evans, of Appleton, postoffice inspector, will represent the postal department and will preside at the service problems question box, a feature of all postal supervisors conventions. Walter E. Foley of Milwaukee, is state president. Mr. Foley is supervisor in charge of the claims department at the Milwaukee postoffice. E. R. Arnold of Sparta, is secretary of the organization.

FLOWER GARDEN OWNERS COMPLAIN OF THIEVERY

A number of complaints have been received by the police department from residents of the First ward who declare their flower gardens are being raided by thieves and vandals during the late hours of the night. The complainants have been assured by Acting Chief P. J. Vaughn that speedy prosecution will follow arrest of thieves.

WISCONSIN WEATHER Mostly fair tonight and Thursday, except probably showers tonight in northeast portion; slightly cooler to night in east and south portion and in extreme south Thursday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The low pressure area which was centered yesterday morning over northern Wisconsin has now moved into Ontario, but is developing a secondary "low" over the Mississippi valley this morning. This will cause continued unsettled weather in this region this afternoon and tonight. Showers have fallen with this "low" during the past 24 hours over the lake region and upper Mississippi valley and southward over the western slope of the Appalachians. A high pressure area, with mostly fair weather, over the plains state and should cause generally fair and slightly cooler weather in this region late tonight and on Thursday as it moves eastward.

LAWMAKERS PICK BASEBALL TEAM TO BATTLE SCRIBES

Madison—(CP)—The All-Legislative baseball team which has been selected to accept a challenge of the members of the press Wednesday afternoon at Camp Randall, has been named by Assemblyman Barney Spott, Milwaukee.

The assemblyman, after "separating the wheat from the chaff," following the titanic carnival of errors participated in by the two houses of the legislature" named the representative team which will meet the members of the fourth estate.

The legislative lineup: Pitcher—A. E. Smith, Phil Nelson, George Blanchard.

1b—W. Lang, J. H. Carroll.

2b—Gardner Withrow.

3b—J. Fronck, W. H. Markham.

SS—B. Gettelman, H. H. Smith.

LF—L. Polewczynski, E. E. Husband.

C. F.—Alex Ruffing, J. C. Schuman.

LF—R. Bruce Johnson.

Coaches—E. Huker and William A. Titus.

Umpires—Fred R. Zimmerman, and John W. Egan.

The press lineup consists of those members of the fourth estate covering the two houses of the legislature.

After this he presented a check drawn on the Green Bay bank and stated that for purposes of identification bank officials of the second Fond du Lac bank could communicate with the institution where he had placed an account.

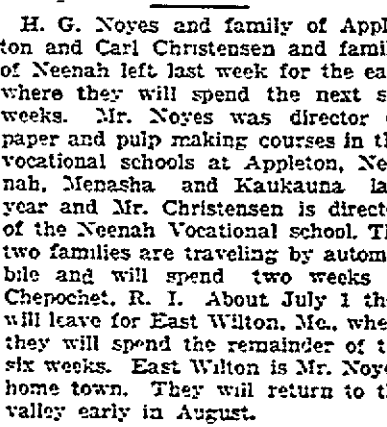

He is said to have followed this mode of operation in a number of other cities.

The man is described in the bulletin as being about 25 years of age, five feet, eight inches in height and is of heavy built and dark complexion.

TRADE SCHOOL DIRECTORS SPEND SUMMER IN EAST

H. G. Noyes and family of Appleton and Carl Christensen and family of Neenah left last week for the east where they will spend the next six weeks. Mr. Noyes was director of paper and pulp making courses in the vocational schools at Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Kaukauna last year and Mr. Christensen is director of the Neenah Vocational school. The two families are traveling by automobile and will spend two weeks in Chepochet, R. I. About July 1 they will leave for East Wilton, Me., where they will spend the remainder of the weeks. East Wilton is Mr. Noyes' home town. They will return to the valley early in August.

BLACK HILLS PREACHER

Rolff Lium had no thought of fame when he accepted a $50-a-month summer pastorate at Hermosa, S. D. But the first sermon the 29-year-old theological student preached in his new charge was heard by none other than President and Mrs. Coolidge. He is pictured here in his local pulpit.

BADGER BANKERS OPEN CONVENTION

Madison—(CP)—Business sessions of the Wisconsin Bankers' Association's annual convention began Wednesday morning with the president's address and report of the executive council.

Reports from the secretary, auditors and association committees were submitted to the convention at the same time. The convention opened Tuesday with a golf tournament and a banquet, in the evening. The meeting will close Thursday.

President Knute Anderson, Eau Claire delivered the opening address and greetings were extended by Mayor Schmiedemeyer, Madison.

The secretary's report said: "This year we have liquidated the cost of the Hartford case appeal, have materially increased our service to the members through more frequent bulletins, visitation at meetings and the appointment of an assistant secretary."

"During the past 12 months ten banks have been chartered all of them by the state banking department. Three state banks have liquidated, while the closed banks include thirteen state and two national. There was one consolidation of trust companies, one of state banks and one of national banks, while one state bank was purchased by a state bank. On June 1, there were 974 banking institutions doing business in Wisconsin."

"It would seem that the farmers' problem is the business man's problem, and coincidentally the banker's problem, the agricultural committee said. In the last analysis, it would appear to be not so much a question of overproduction as a problem of poor distribution. ARMY OF "KIDS" INITIATE REMODELED SWIMMING POOL

Rolff Lium had no thought of fame when he accepted a $50-a-month summer pastorate at Hermosa, S. D. But the first sermon the 29-year-old theological student preached in his new charge was heard by none other than President and Mrs. Coolidge. He is pictured here in his local pulpit.

ARMY OF "KIDS" INITIATE REMODELED SWIMMING POOL

"Too-hoo, Skinny! Come on over the swimmin' pool opened Monday and the bull gang's goin' down Tuesday afternoon."

And the whole gang was there, swimming suits of every color, shade and combination of colors imaginable adorned the great gang of "kids" that gathered to "celebrate" the opening of the municipal swimming pool on W. Water-st., Tuesday afternoon.

The pool was filled with water for the first time late Monday afternoon and a few girls went in but the big day was Tuesday.

A person would hardly believe there were so many "kids" in Appleton. At least 200 were packed about the front of the pool waiting for the attendant to open the doors at 1:30. With squeals of delight the kids hardly had time to fasten their suits before they were crowding, splashing, diving, floating and swimming about raising a shower of spray that made it unsafe to remain near unless you wore a raincoat or a swimming suit.

And to supplement the original 200, which by the way were all boys as Tuesday is boy's day, more boys of every size, shape and description swarmed over the hill near by and down the road to await the second round. Each round of boys is allowed to swim for one hour after which the attendant clears the pool for the second shift.

Theodore "Ted" Bleier, attendant for the past two years, was re-appointed for this season. Mr. Bleier will be at the pool every day except Sunday from 8:30 to 12 in the morning; 1:30 to 5 in the afternoon and 6:30 to 8 in the evening. Boys will swim on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and girls will have the pool on alternate days. The water in the pool will be changed every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

It is the experience of a life time to stand by and watch the gang of boys in the pool. All that can be seen is sprayed and tossing water, tumbled hair of every color, flashing arms and legs and a rainbow of color caused by the varied swimming suits.

"Ted", estimates that on warm days during the summer months at least 1,000 boys or girls take advantage of the cooling waters at the pool.

The pool has been remodeled to permit the addition of 75 lockers making a total of close to 300. Even at that most of the lockers house two and some, three boys and many of the "kids" are forced to shift as best to get dressed. The favorite dress seems to be overalls.

Great interest is expected in swimming races which are to be held at the pool this summer under the direction of Joseph Shields, head of supervised playground work in the city.

The pool is to be kept open until school opens next September.

HARDT AT MEETING OF COLLEGE NEWS BUREAUS

Dan A. Hardt, director of the Lawrence college news bureau, left Wednesday for Manhattan, Kan., to attend the annual convention of the American Association of College News Bureaus. The conference will be held at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

About 45 representatives of the larger universities and colleges attended the 1926 convention in Indiana.

Reports from the secretary, auditors and association committees were submitted to the convention at the same time. The convention opened Tuesday with a golf tournament and a banquet, in the evening. The meeting will close Thursday.

President Knute Anderson, Eau Claire delivered the opening address and greetings were extended by Mayor Schmiedemeyer, Madison.

The secretary's report said: "This year we have liquidated the cost of the Hartford case appeal, have materially increased our service to the members through more frequent bulletins, visitation at meetings and the appointment of an assistant secretary."

"During the past 12 months ten banks have been chartered all of them by the state banking department. Three state banks have liquidated, while the closed banks include thirteen

U. S. GOVERNMENT
HAS NO OBLIGATION
TO REBUILD BRIDGEWar Department Has No
Record of Tayco-st Bridge,
Letter to Mayor Says

Menasha—Mayor N. G. Remmel read a reply to a letter to federal government officials as to whether there are any records on file concerning Tayco-st bridge and whether there is any possibility of receiving federal aid for its rebuilding at the meeting of the council Tuesday evening. The letter says there is no record of the bridge and there is nothing to indicate that any legal responsibility rests with the war department with regard to its replacement. The bridge matter was confined to the reading of the letter.

Application for a marriage license was made to the county clerk at Oshkosh Wednesday by Hugh B. Sutton and Miss Sarah Elliott, both of Menasha. The wedding will take place Wednesday, June 29.

OIL SIXTH-ST

A petition for oiling Sixth-st between Racine and Appleton-sts was granted. Frank Smith, owner of several lots in blocks 2, 3 and 4, waived all his rights for the building of a sewer on the streets abutting his property. Similar action was taken by some of his neighbors on the opposite side of the street. The contract for furnishing 200 tons of coal for the coming year to the city was awarded to R. L. Fankrauz. The city clerk was instructed to purchase the necessary stationery, books and pamphlets for registering the voters under the new law.

Alderman Baldwin moved that the city attorney notify the Wisconsin Tractor, Lift, Heat and Power company to place gas mains on Racine-st before it is paved. Since Brighton beach changed hands Brighton beach rd has a dead end. Upon the suggestion of Alderman Baldwin it was decided to erect a sign to this effect at the corner Third and Konamack-sts. The city clerk and aldermen will attend the annual convention of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities at Sheboygan submitted a joint report which was read by the city clerk. Individual reports were submitted by City Attorney S. L. Spengler and H. Kuester, superintendent of water and light.

Mayor N. G. Remmel read an invitation from W. H. Draheim to visit Camp Douglas during the National Guard encampment week of July 17 to 23 which was accepted. The committee of the city recommended that the bid of A. E. Sawyer for the sewer extension on Appleton-st be held for further investigation. The parking situation on the street in front of the plant of the Gilbert Paper company was discussed. It was finally decided to take the matter up with officers of the company with a view of relieving the congestion. A resolution was adopted rescinding the purchase of a truck and it was voted that the truck, the bids to be returnable on June 31.

License for the sale of non-intoxicating liquor for the coming year were granted to The Club, F. E. Meyer, 131 Main-st; A. F. Storil, 155 Main-st; Emil Nantke, 253 Tayco-st; J. F. Bendt, 405 Racine-st; John Jankowski, 410 Racine-st; Polish Falcons, 544 Fourth-st; Ben J. Spilke, 608 Racine-st; A. H. Spilke, 405 Racine-st; Ross Shattuck, 225 Main-st; William Mastland, 220 Main-st; Fred C. Walter, 369 Racine-st; Rino Gothe, 569 Racine-st; V. M. GAME TO BOY CAMPERS

Neenah—A number of Rotarians visited the Boys' Brigade in camp on Onaway Island in Chain o' Lakes Tuesday afternoon upon invitation of Capt. Leo Schubert. The visitors remained for supper after which a baseball game was played, the boys defeating the Rotarians by a score of 19 to 3. The Brigade battery was John Schneller, Jr., and Paul Grogan. H. P. Buck pitched for the Rotarians and Carl Gerhardt was the catcher.

BOYS BRIGADE BREAKS
CAMP THURSDAY MORNING

Neenah—The Boys' Brigade will return Thursday afternoon from Onaway Island where it has been spending the last week in camp. There are 15 boys and officers in camp this season. The Boy Scout of Troop 3 of St. Thomas church will return later in the week after spending 10 days in their cabin on the east shore of Lake Winnebago. Both camps entertained a large number of visitors Sunday.

BADGER BRIEFS

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Hamilton all metal monoplane, "Malden Milwaukee" was turning up Wednesday preparatory for leaving for Detroit to join the third annual Ford reliability tour.

Wabeno—Members of a poker party, who enjoyed a little game in a bunkhouse in Camp 14, twelve miles east of here, revealed Tuesday how the party of seven men was robbed by two armed bandits. The holdup men, their faces blackened, "cleaned" the party and then fled into the woods.

Antigo—Sam W. Peterson, Antigo, was killed by lightning while riding on a boat on Long lake, about two miles from Kempster, north of here, Monday night. Dick Topl, a companion, was dazed.

Milwaukee—Construction of the proposed Greater Milwaukee harbor will be started at once, William George Bruce of the Harbor commission, revealed Tuesday. The first unit will be a double car ferry ship to cost between $500,000 and $600,000.

Neenah—The Rotary club will hold its weekly luncheon and meeting at the Neenah park this week. In case of rain the luncheon will be served in the pavilion.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is:
PARTNER'S NO TRUMP SHOULD NOT BE TAKEN OUT WITH MINOR STRENGTH AT LOVE, BUT WITH A SCORE, TWO OF A MINOR SHOULD BE BID WITH ANY HOLD-ING WITH WHICH TWO OF A MINOR WOULD BE BID AT LOVE.
Yesterday's Hand

♠ 8-5
♥ 6-3-2
♦ 5-4
♣ A-K-7-6-3

My answer slip reads:
No. 5 South (Dealer) should bid one Club.
No. 6 South one No Trump; West should pass.
No. 7 South one No Trump, West pass; North should pass.
No. 8 (With a score of 10 for North and South) South one No Trump, West pass; North should bid two Clubs.

My reasons in support of these declarations are:
No. 5. It is now generally conceded that an Ace-King five-card suit should be bid initially, regardless of the weakness of the remainder of the hand.

No. 6. With a holding of this character a bid when sitting over an adverse No Trump, is inadvisable. There is a good chance that by leading the fourth best Club, the suit will be established and the game saved. A bid of two Clubs might warn North and South, and induce a shift to a suit which would produce game.

No. 7. At a love score (the score always is supposed to be love-all unless otherwise stated), it is not advisable to take out partner's No Trump with minor strength.

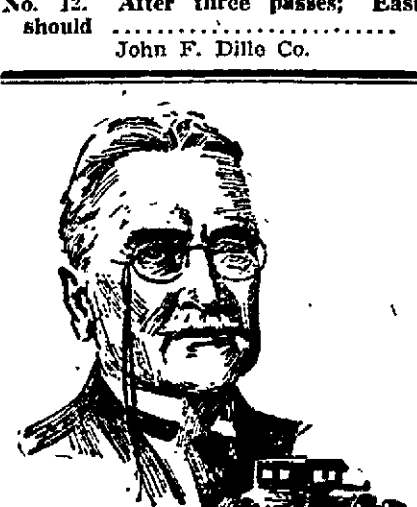

No. 8. With any score, no matter how small, a Minor can make game with as few tricks as a Major can at love; therefore it should be treated in the same way. A Major Ace-King five card suit should be called over partner's No Trump at a love score, and therefore two Clubs should be similarly called in this case.

SENATE WOULD CURB
CIRCUIT JUDGE'S POWER

Madison—(AP)—A bill to take from circuit judges the power to declare laws unconstitutional and limiting the privilege to members of the supreme court was engrossed by the senate Tuesday by a 16-10 vote.

The bill, being an amendment to the constitution must pass two legislatures and be voted upon by the people. It has passed the 1925 legislature and will be up for passage in the senate next week.

The senate upheld the governor's veto in the case of Senator Cushman's bill giving additional powers to the conservation commission. The vote was 22-1. This bill would have placed all golf links on state parks under the supervision of the state commission.

NEW FIRE ALARM BOXES INSTALLED THROUGHOUT CITY

Will Replace Old Ones Whose Efficiency Is Worn Out

The installation of twelve new fire alarm boxes in various parts of the city has been completed by Louis Luebke, fire department electrician, and as far as the new equipment is concerned Appleton will have a metropolitan rating.

The new boxes will replace old ones whose efficiency was long ago worn out and which were considered more perilous than serviceable.

According to Fire Chief George P. McGillan the new boxes are of non-interfering, successive type of mechanism meaning that when two or more boxes on the same circuit are pulled that one report will automatically be cancelled until the other is recorded and when this is done the cancelled call will come in order.

This feature alone is a distinct advantage over the old type of box. Chief McGillan explained, who said that when two of the old boxes are simultaneously pulled the reports come in at the same time and considerable confusion results at the switchboard. This means costly delays and resultant loss of property.

The faulty mechanism of the old boxes makes them practically useless in especially cold or warm weather. Chief McGillan explained, as during these periods the boxes never complete their dispatches and leave the city out of communication with the result that all boxes on the same circuit are thrown out.

There is now a total of 93 boxes in the city and it is planned to gradually replace the old boxes with the new ones.

The new boxes according to Mr. Luebke are easier to operate than the old ones and it is not necessary to break the small glass doors to turn in a call.

Locations of the new boxes are: Lawrence and Story-sts, Outagamie and Spencer-sts, W. College-ave and Outagamie-st, Foot of St. John-st hill, N. Onelda and Atlantic-sts, S. Onelda and Foster-sts, Blair Court, N. State and W. Franklin-sts, Meade-st between Summer-st and Northwestern tracks, E. College-ave and N. Durkee-st, Lawrence-st and Walnut, S. Morrison-st and Soldier's Square.

AWARD LOCAL COMPANY $10,000 BRIDGE CONTRACT

The Garvey-Weyenberg Construction company was last week awarded a contract to build a steel bridge about one and one-half miles north of Fond du Lac. The bridge will be located on a county trunk line and is to cost approximately $10,000. There will be a 70-foot steel span. Work is to be started at once and it is expected that the bridge will be completed within six weeks. There were five other bidders for this job.

JULY 2 FINAL DATE FOR REINSTATEMENT

War Veterans Urged to Reinstate or Convert Insurance Policies

Appleton veterans of the World war again are being urged this week by Harvey Priebe, commander of Onee Johnston post of the American legion, to start immediately to reinstate and convert their lapsed war insurance. July 2 is the final date for doing this and applications that are incomplete cannot be considered or approved thereafter. Complete information, rates and necessary forms may be secured from the Johnston post or the Veterans' manager, United States Veterans bureau, 237 Second-st, Milwaukee. All applications must be completed, mailed or delivered to the Veterans bureau before July 2, with a remittance for the month of lapse on term insurance and also the first premium payment on the completed policy.

MRS. PEABODY ASKED TO RETURN TO CHINA

Mrs. Stephen Peabody was asked May 1 to return from Korea to China because the situation in that country had quieted down to a great extent, according to word received here from her husband, a son of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Peabody of Appleton. Mrs. Peabody Jr. left China this spring because of the serious uprisings there. She and her husband expect to spend the summer together at the seashore near the capital. Both are missionaries of the Congregational church there.

Mr. Peabody reported that the rapid advance of the Nationalist forces into North China is working decidedly for the welfare both of the nation and of the Christian churches there. The Nationalists are anti-foreign-imperialism, not anti-foreign, he stated.

Saturday, 9 to 10 o'clock, court house, Crandon.

Extend Time On Library Books In Summer Months

Books for vacations may be borrowed from the Appleton public library and kept until Oct. 1 under the special permit regulations of the library.

Many persons have taken advantage of this opportunity already, perhaps more than in other years, Miss Florence C. Day, librarian, said. Lots of ten books may be borrowed by those registered at the library. These may include any books in the library except seven day or current books which are being circulated regularly. The books loaned to vacationers are those not called for regularly, and which might stand on the library shelves most of the summer.

A large part of the volumes loaned to vacationers includes fiction but others take this chance to read some of the heavier non-fiction books they do not have time for in the winter. The books may be borrowed at any time through the summer and kept until October.

Who Uses Oil?

Who uses oil? Everybody! The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) supplies products of petroleum used—directly or indirectly—by every one of the 30 million people of the Middle West.

The two major products of oil—gasoline and lubricating oil—are essential to motor transportation, to industry and to commerce.

In addition to the major products of petroleum there are hundreds of by-products which fill a great variety of needs and, by eliminating waste, help to make possible the low price of the major products. The man who rides over an asphalt road—the woman who oils her sewing machine—is using a product of petroleum.

The wheels that are busily whirling in factories throughout the land, manufacturing the necessities and luxuries of life, must be lubricated.

Oil plays its part in the manufacture and distribution of practically all the products in use today—the food we eat—the clothes we wear—the houses in which we live.

As a nation we move on oil. Wheels on our railroads—cars—trucks—are lubricated by the products of petroleum.

Engines—in millions of automobiles, trucks and tractors—are fed the products of oil.

In manufacturing petroleum products for the people of the Middle West, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is helping to unite the nation, socially and industrially.

The passenger miles done last year by automobiles has been estimated at 240 billion.

That means travel. Motorists learning to know their own country. People from one section visiting other sections. An interchange of people in the ten states of the Middle West. Horizons widened—sympathies broadened—the fabric of our national life more closely knit together.

Industrially the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is helping to unite the nation. Gasoline and oil bring the city to the country and the country to the city.

At the end of 1926 there were 4,850,000 farmer-owned automobiles registered. In addition there were the motor trucks which bring the farm close to the markets, benefiting farmer, merchant and general consumer.

Providing petroleum products for the people of the Middle West is a big job made up of countless small ones—each of which must be performed with the same accuracy and wholehearted effort. The energy and time of 29,000 men and women, united by a common loyalty and enthusiasm, are required to carry on the work of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Conscious of the greatness of the task, yet mindful of the importance of every detail, this great army of workers is daily putting into action the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) creed of service.

Drive the wonderful Chrysler '70 and appreciate its great reputation

We can recite to you the advantages of Chrysler '70's speed of 70 miles plus, its astonishing pickup of 5 to 25 miles in 7 1/2 seconds.

We can tell you what its scientifically balanced 7-bearing crankshaft and impulse neutralizer contribute toward its greater smoothness; how much more comfortably you ride because of its low chassis design, its unique spring suspension and its shock absorbers; how much more easily it handles because of its pivotal steering gear; and how much safer you feel because of its four-wheel hydraulic brakes.

But the real way for you actually to discover these things for yourself is to learn them today in an extended test over all sorts of roads, through all sorts of traffic, with you doing the driving.

We gladly accord you the opportunity for such a demonstration.

NEW ENGLAND SUPPORTS ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

With the unanimous and unqualified indorsement of the St. Lawrence seaway by New England, all further opposition to this great project ought to subside and negotiations for its construction hastened. A committee of businessmen, financiers, economists and engineers from Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, Maine and Connecticut have been for many months studying the question of providing an outlet from the Great Lakes to the sea and it has concluded that the St. Lawrence waterway is the only feasible method. It discards the all-American route through New York as wholly impractical from an engineering as well as a financial standpoint. It says the New York route would cost four or five times as much to construct, would require more than twice the number of locks, would contain five times as many bridges and would add 625 miles of travel. It furthermore estimates that the operation of the New York canal would entail an annual deficit of several million dollars, and in addition would possess no compensating advantages in the form of power development such as obtains in the case of the St. Lawrence route.

Taking up the military aspects of the canal, the committee expresses indignation at the suggestion that this country would even consider the construction of a canal in competition with the St. Lawrence waterway for "patriotic reasons." It holds there is nothing in our relations with Canada, either past or prospective, that would justify the building of an all-American canal as a protective measure. It says that if the thought behind the argument for an all-American waterway contemplates the possibility of a future conflict between the United States and Canada, it constitutes "an unwarranted affront to a friendly neighbor and highly valued and esteemed commercial ally." Indeed, the committee would prefer to drop the entire proposal than to engage in it in a spirit which reflects "suspicion against our neighbor on the north."

The committee takes a broad and national view of the undertaking when it appeals to the government at Washington for immediate action and to the entire country for support in behalf of mid-continent agriculture and industry. It argues that since the construction of the Panama canal has afforded cheap water transportation between the seaboard sections of the country, the mid-West is now entitled to a water outlet and to the tremendous commercial advantages it will afford. It expresses the significant and important opinion that "a reduction in transportation costs is the primary requisite of the central section of the country today, and its accomplishment would afford more relief to farming and other elements of that community than would any of the proposals so far advanced for amelioration of the farmers' condition."

The intelligent and patriotic action of New England merits and will have the deep appreciation of the mid-West. It will be welcomed all the more because it was not expected that that section of the country would so wholeheartedly back the St. Lawrence project. This leaves New York and New Jersey as the sole opponents. It must be obvious to congress and to the administration at Washington that the time has arrived when the St. Lawrence seaway demands vigorous affirmative action as easily the most important public work confronting the United States since the building of the Panama canal. All other waterway projects sink into insignificance in comparison with this. Its economic value to the mid-continent is almost beyond computation, in fact, it is indispensable to a recovery of its prosperity and to its normal and healthy development.

A SPLENDID SPIRIT

The alumni council of Amherst College, in Massachusetts, is to be congratulated upon an act as genuinely fine as it is appropriate. Desirous of giving the president, Dr. George Daniel Olds, whose resignation takes effect at this commencement, some gift which would show most suitably their appreciation of his 35 years of service to the college as professor of mathematics, dean and finally executive head, the council decided on a residence as the most appropriate.

Accordingly plans were developed for the construction of a house, to be built at an approximate cost of $25,000 and to be ready for occupancy a year from this fall, at which time Dr. Olds will return to Amherst after a year of travel, according to his present plans. The house will be kept in trust by the alumni and eventually will become a faculty residence.

If Dr. Olds has been paid along the usual college scale it is quite certain he has not been able to accumulate too much of this world's goods and thus the idea of providing him with a residence is appropriate. Also, it will be very good for the college, since the knowledge and experience he has gained through 35 years at the same institution will be readily available for the use of the person who will succeed him as the active head of the college.

Every college could well follow this example and provide a residence for men who have occupied a similar position to that of Dr. Olds. These educators become so closely identified with the colleges that to lose them is to lose the vital influence of their accumulated wisdom and experience.

SPORTSMEN TO THE RESCUE

A plea to sportsmen throughout the country for continued support of the American Game Protective association in its work of restoring wild animal life in America has recently been issued. The association has long been actively associated with conservation in the United States and its activities are in a large measure responsible for the increase in the last few years of game birds and animals. During the early years of the association the generous moral and financial support given by the manufacturers of arms and ammunition made it possible for it to carry forward its progressive and constructive program.

As the work became better known and membership extended throughout the country, the need for financial support from these companies grew less and they gradually reduced and finally withdrew altogether their individual subscriptions to the association.

This association, therefore, is one now composed of sportsmen and those interested in conservation from an unselfish angle, only, and thus deserves real support all around. The policies, as outlined in its declarations and as evidenced by its past activities, are fundamentally sound and constitute the basis on which the wild animal life of America must be built up if it is to be conserved.

In their gold coats spots you see;
Those be rubies, fairy favors;
In those freckles live their savors;
I must seek some dew drops here,
And hang a pearl in every cowslip's ear.

GALLBLADDER TROUBLE

I just hate to call a disease or an illness "trouble," but if I use any other term some one is sure to say I am too technical for plain people to understand. Everybody knows what trouble means, yet we had better let Dr. Webster define it. Trouble means disorder, disturbance, agitation, inconvenience. That's the reason I hate the term as applied to disease. It immediately suggests quibbling, dodging, evading, hedging. Have you chronic inflammation of the gallbladder—cholecystitis? If so, you probably have "stomach trouble." You see how it goes. This trick word, trouble, is much too handy for the plain quack and the lazy or incompetent regular physician. "Kidney trouble" is notoriously indicative of almost anything else that ails the kidney. "Liver trouble" is all in the morbid imagination of the victim, nine times out of 10. "Nervous trouble" is just a polite way of saying God knows what, as a general rule. Still, it is just as well to call your illness trouble as it is to call it complaint, disturbance, disorder or condition—all of these terms as applied to illness are evasive. If you don't know just what the matter, why not say so and have done with it? That is, if you're the patient. Of course if you're the doctor, it is bad business to admit you don't know what the matter is, you must always opine it is some kind of trouble.

Dr. John B. Deavor and Dr. Edward L. Bortz have recently made a remarkable report to the profession on their study of 408 patients with gallbladder disease in the surgical service of a hospital. Of these, 605 were female, 238 were male. More than half of the patients had calculi—gallstones (452 cases). In 438 cases the disease was chronic gallbladder inflammation (cholecystitis) without calculi. In the series were included 13 cases of carcinoma (cancer) of the gallbladder.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Don't Trifle With Typhoid

I expect to take the Mediterranean cruise this summer. I have been advised by some people to be inoculated against typhoid fever. Both my wife and I would rather rely upon your advice about this. (M. H.)

Answer—By all means be immunized against typhoid, before traveling anywhere, even to vacation resorts here in our own country. Some food handler who serves you may be a typhoid carrier.

Rolled Dough 15 Per Cent

I simply must write to tell you how thankful I am for your advice regarding somersaults. Two months ago I weighed 304 pounds. This month I weighed 250 and am going down fast. I hope many other readers will profit by your method as well as I did. (Mrs. A. H. P.)

Answer—Perhaps you just helped yourself to some of my rolls on your way down. It is news to me that somersaults will materially reduce weight. I have never suggested them for that purpose, and I believe something else must have brought about your reduction.

Cancer of Stomach

What are the symptoms of cancer or ulcer of the stomach? (U. H.)

Answer—Ulcer is one thing. Cancer is very different. "Dyspepsia" in one past 40 who has never had it before; loss of strength; loss of appetite, especially for meat, are common early symptoms of cancer of stomach.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

"THE SOUTH AFRICANS"

It is very well possible that a great many, seeing a book announced in the publishing lists under the title, "The South Africans," will turn away from it. What do they care about South Africa? Moreover, they know that kind of book—across of statistics about the population, the imports and exports, dull facts added to dull facts, heavy, meaningless. In short, the typical travel book.

These who have read the three novels of Sarah Gertrude Millin, "The Jordans," "God's Stepchildren," and "Mary Glenn," will know that she could not write such a book. She is so much alive that it would be impossible for her to write a dead book. Yet there have been cases like that. The same hand that wrote "The Scarlet Letter" wrote a lifeless life of Franklin Pierce. Was it not possible that Sarah Gertrude Millin, after she had won deserved recognition as a novelist, had decided to cash in on her reputation by hastily publishing a book about the people among whom she had lived for so long?

Nothing of the kind. "The South Africans" is in its way as genuine a work of art as any of the three novels. It stands on its own feet. Without the novels it would perhaps not have obtained a hearing; very probably it would not have found a publisher. But it is a book that has thought of reading it if it had not been the work of the author of the novels.

Sarah Gertrude Millin lives in South Africa. Her history is not a travel book. It is refreshingly free from meaningless statistics. She approaches her theme not as a traveler might do who writes a book for no other reason than that he has happened to visit a certain country, but as a novelist in whose mind and heart a subject has been smoldering for years finally breaking out into flame because it must. Which is only saying that the book is not mere hackwork but a genuine work of art.

The author sees South Africa, a country vast in territory but in the United States, as a land in which the problem of color is challenging the world. It has confronted the country for three centuries and the issue is still uncertain whether South Africa is to be white or black or whether it will be possible eventually for white and black to occupy the country together. Perhaps the answer will come in another thousand years.

To so vast a scale is the theme adjusted. Consequently such events as the Bear war are merely episodes in the epic of South Africa. The discovery of the diamond mines, of the gold mines, are other episodes. "No one is as wise as destiny," is the concluding sentence in the volume. All the events of the past century, discovery of diamonds and gold, the raids, the wars and insurrections, the operations of Cecil Rhodes, have no power in themselves to determine the destiny of that vast territory. They are episodes in a destiny the end of which is not yet clear to any human being. Only after the lapse of years do they fall into the pattern of history and can they be understood.

The Bear war for instance. Mrs. Millin is not a partisan. Her book is not a political tract. She can sympathize with the Boers, just as we can sympathize with the American Indians who were driven out of their ancestral possessions, sympathize at the same time that we enjoy the fruits of a policy that was as unethical as the German invasion of Belgium and that merely seems less brutal because it was spread over a century or more of time. We can see that it was destiny. Mrs. Millin sees such events as the Bear war in the light of destiny. No appointment of praise or blame is involved.

The war of race in South Africa is a much vaster epic. The American race problem is child's play by the side of it. It colors all politics, all thought, all social relations. Everything written about South Africa is meaningless without taking the race problem into consideration.

Above all, the book is readable, clear, swift. That is Mrs. Millin's outstanding quality as a writer. She can say more in a given number of words than any writer I know. She has dealt with a vast subject in less than 300 pages and has done it adequately.

The Question Box

Q. How far away can lightning be seen? Y. H.

A. This distance varies greatly with the conditions. Ordinarily a flash of lightning is not seen more than 20 miles. Under exceptionally favorable circumstances, however, lightning at or near the top of a towering cumulus cloud, atmosphere clear, observer on top of high mountain it may, perhaps, be seen at any distance up to 200 miles.

Q. Is fishing allowed in Yellowstone National Park? W. I. B.

A. Fishing in Yellowstone is exceptionally good. Yellowstone is a paradise for the expert angler. Almost any of a hundred streams can be successfully whipped by an adept, while an amateur can catch lake trout near the outlet of Yellowstone Lake. No license is required.

Q. To what race did gypsies originally belong? S. S.

A. Scientific men have come to the conclusion that gypsies are neither European nor African in origin, but a remnant of some obscure Indian tribe. They made their first appearance in Paris in 1327, when they said they had come from lower Egypt. They had been driven to take refuge in Europe from the Saracens.

Q. What per cent of the people are engaged in agricultural pursuits? S. M.

A. The Bureau of Census says that 10,353,153, or 26.3 per cent of the persons occupied are engaged in agriculture, forestry, and animal husbandry.

Q. How many engines of the Pacific type on the Baltimore and Ohio are named for the Presidents? Are they all of the same color? B. O. C.

A. There are 30 such engines, numbered 5300 to 5519 inclusive. All these engines are built for service between Washington and New York, N. Y. The color scheme for each engine is olive green, striped with gold and maroon. The names of the Presidents appear in three-inch gold letters.

Q. Does Great Britain have an honorary field marshal? S. T.

A. The emperors of Japan and Marshal Ferdinand Foch are honorary Field Marshals of Britain.

Q. How much revenue is received through the state gasoline taxes? T. F. M.

A. The total amount collected under this tax in 1926 was $187,605,231 as compared with $148,258,087 in 1925, or an increase of 27 per cent.

Q. Where are the soldiers commemorating the unidentified dead of the various countries buried? N. F.

A. The Unknown Soldier are buried in the following places: France, at the Arc de Triomphe; Britain, in Westminster Abbey; Italy, in Victor Emmanuel Monument on the Piazza Portogallo; Batalha Monastery; United States, in Arlington National Cemetery.

Q. How did the custom of sending flowers to funerals begin? K. McC.

A. The funeral wreath is believed to be a survival of the belief that dead

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—The "bigger-and better" idea appears to have seized the churches, as well as the movies, the theatres, the apartment and the office buildings of Manhattan.

Thus Dr. Fosdick's new Baptist church will cost four millions and will be equipped with bowing alleys, a theatre and chimneys made up of 60 bells. The tower will be about 200 feet high.

Such attractions, they say, are necessary in these days of high-proof competition. In a metropolis a church must be metropolitan. This is certainly the case of a church in the mid-Forties where the social halls are rented out to theatre managers for rehearsals.

And yet it is to the romantic and colorful little places that most tourists first turn upon coming to New York and it is to such "the sweet-hearts go to be married."

The Cathedral of St. John the Divine may present an architectural picture unequalled on this continent, but it is to the flower-clusters, Little Church Around the Corner that lovers rush when they wish the wedding bells to ring.

From every part of the nation they come to this romantic spot. It is looked upon as America's Gretna Green, and elopers have the impression that all the sundry who come there can have their knots tied on a moment's notice.

Yet the Rev. Randolph Ray recently told me he turns down as many as 400 or 500 couples a year. Sometimes they seem to young, sometimes they seem to lack sincerity, or one of them may have been divorced—a moment's notice.

Still the demand for nuptial ties is so great that two assistant ministers are necessary to keep the marriage mill running. Last year there were more than 2,000 ceremonies.

New York is a place to make youngsters ponder before leaping into the marriage net.

If they have dwelt long in Manhattan they have learned the lesson of high rentals and high living costs. Generally both bride and bridegroom have jobs and have to keep them long after the ceremony has been spoken. New York is no place to "live on love."

parted spirits must be provided with comforts. The custom of using flowers at funerals is very ancient. The Egyptians adorned their mummies with flowers, and the mourners carried them.

Q. Who was the first American singer who, without European training, made a debut in a leading role with the Metropolitan Opera Company? Boris Godunov, March 19, 1913.

A. Paul Althouse. His first role with that company was Dimitri in "The Idiot."

Q. Can you tell me about Ralph Forbes who played the part of John Geste in "Deau Game"? G. T.

A. Ralph Forbes is a young English actor. He has been on the stage for some time and is married to Ruth Chatterton. He made his screen debut in "See How They Run." He plays an important role with Lon Chaney in "Mr. Wu."

Q. What State received the most revenue from the gasoline tax? S. M.

A. According to the American Motorist, California led the list with $16,502,122. Ohio was second with $12,257,266. Pennsylvania third with $11,751,782. Florida fourth with $11,431,486, and Michigan fifth with $10,681,776.

Q. How can strawberries be preserved with honey? F. B.

A. Take equal weights of strawberries and honey; mix the two and dry in the sun, or preferably in a warm oven; put into carefully sterilized glasses and seal with paraffin.

Q. Can snakes be trained? V. M.

A. Training snakes is not usually successfully done, although boas can be made to obey orders.

Q. Who wrote "Give me men to match my mountains"? W. R.

A. Samuel Fess wrote the poem about which you have inquired.

Q. Can you tell me where the thickest vein of coal in the world is and in the United States? A. B.

A. The Bureau of Mines says that the thickest coal seam in the world is the Ostrava Mine near Colongne, which is 100 meters or 350 feet thick. The thickest seam in the United States of high-grade coal, is in the Mammoth Seam near Wilkes Barre, Pa. This seam is 50 feet thick, some folds running as high as 60 to 80 feet.

NO. 22—ADVERTISING BY TOURISTS

BY DON E. NOWRY

Secretary, The American Community Advertising Association

Automobile tourists who pass through your city can do you a great deal of good if you treat them fairly.

Utica, N. Y., has made every tourist a booster for the Utica community by its free information booth.

The object in establishing tourist information booths was to get a story about Utica to every tourist who stopped.

But Utica is not the whole story. They have approved a new booklet advertising Central New York, which includes the Finger Lakes region, Adirondack Park, the Thousand Islands, the Mohawk and Chenango valleys.

These coming years they shall print 150,000 copies for distribution.

A part of the campaign is the poster boards. They have what is known as the De Luxe sign, 50 feet long, 12 feet high—beautiful examples of workmanship. I have seen three of them. One reads: "Utica, Hub of the Empire State—straight ahead, through scenic historic Mohawk Valley."

Other signs call attention to the through route for Syracuse, Rochester and West; to the direct route to Boston, Albany and New York; and to the gateway to the Adirondacks and Thousand Islands.

Utica wants the tourist so Utica keeps a smiling Utica with everything "bound about her."

Gaining the good will of one tourist means gaining one more good advertiser for your community.

LINDBERGH OPENED CASH FLOOD GATES FOR OTHER PEOPLE

Air Hero Declines to Pose as Military Man; Sees Others
Capitalize Fame

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—No one desires to mingle a sour note with the echo of Lindbergh's reception here, but unless Congress has prohibited it in special session overnight, it is no crime to chronicle the interesting and the amusing.

Young Mr. Lindbergh had failed to capitalize or commercialize his great feat, but as he stepped onto American soil he found that he was almost as lonely in this respect as when he flew to Paris.

The fact that the Postoffice department and the War department stretched a point to increase revenues and recruiting respectively is nothing to become indignant about, but Lindbergh's own attitude toward personal gain is in contrast. Everyone had something to gain but him.

It was interesting to note that the army's plan to dress Lindy up in an army uniform for the reception and medal-pinning flopped completely, no logical explanation being available except that Lindy turned down flatly those who would have posed him as a military man. The young fellow's father was no militarist and neither is Lindbergh, despite brief hitches with the officers' training corps and the national guard, but the army had pasted his picture on every recruiting poster in the country and claimed full credit.

It was officially estimated that Postoffice receipts from the new Lindbergh airmail stamps would reach into millions from collectors and others. One of the funniest things about this angle is that Postmaster General New and his subordinates were grievously disappointed by Lindy's failure to carry any airmail on the trip across. But now they have blossomed out with a diagram of the New York-Paris flight on the stamp and the inscription "Lindbergh Air Mail!" Meanwhile, everyone in America was asked to write airmail letters to Lindbergh. Before Lindbergh's flight, contract airmail flyers such as he were looked down upon by the government service as among the lower species of animals. One federal airmail pilot advises your correspondent that the company employing Lindbergh had far from the best reputation among the contract companies. But all this was forgotten as the Postoffice dashed to the forefront to claim Lindy as its very own and to capitalize him for all he was worth.

The story of how Lindbergh's father was bludgeoned politically by the reactionary leaders has several times been told. They descended to such tricks as calling him "Von Lindbergh" and assailed his patriotism. Yet all such reactionaries crashed into the grand rush to give young Lindbergh the glad hand. The list of such men prominent in the reception, who wouldn't have spoken to Lindbergh's admirable father, was rather long. What young Lindbergh thought of all this would be interesting to know. Sons often become more progressive than their fathers, but never more conservative.

When Lindbergh arrived, less than half of the modest $15,000 fund which Washington decided to raise for the occasion had been collected. But the $50,000 to 100,000 visitors here on Lindbergh day found that business folk of the capital had apparently undertaken to raise a hundred times as much from both tourists and natives. Virtually every saleable commodity has borne the name of Lindbergh all week long.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO SOFFA GARAGE

Marauders Steal Car Accessories and Jewelry, Police Told

Jewelry and motor accessories made up the loot of thieves who entered the Soffa Motor company garage, 316 W. College-ave Tuesday night according to reports to the police Wednesday morning.

The robbery was discovered by Frank Soffa, manager, Wednesday morning when he appeared at his place of business. An investigation was immediately started by the police. The following articles were taken: Five tire testers, 25 light bulbs, two American Make inner tubes, one American Make casing, a 7-jewel Elgin watch and chain, a gold fountain pen and a gold knife.

The articles of jewelry were in Mr. Soffa's vest which was hanging in the office.

Entrance was made by prying open a north window of the garage and by forcing open a door between the garage and the showroom.

RACINE POLICE LOOKING FOR SENESE

Man Wanted Here in Fraudulent Check Case Is Charged With Theft

The whereabouts of Tony Senese, former Appleton man who is said wanted here in connection with the passing of two fraudulent checks here for $70 not only concern police of this city but also of Racine, according to a letter received by Acting Chief Patrick J. Vaughn, Wednesday morning. After complaints were made to police by the Conway hotel and Burts Candy shop that Senese had passed two worthless checks, Vaughn discovered that Senese has lately been living in Racine and wired to police there to help in the search for the man.

The letter received Wednesday morning by Vaughn contained the information that Senese left Racine, June 10. He is accused of having stolen a gold watch and a diamond ring. The letter, which was from H. C. Baker, Racine chief of police, contained the further information that Senese left Racine after announcing his intention of going to the northern part of the state.

Feminine Jurors Will Have
Plan to Spend Spare Time at Courthouse

The rest room for women jurors at the court house provided for in the last May meeting of the building and grounds committee was opened for the first time Tuesday morning and is ready for occupancy.

The rest room which will be the first of its kind in the court house is on the third floor and in the space formerly occupied by the county highway commissioners.

It is completely outfitted with a new set of furniture including a davenport, five chairs, a telephone and a number of other articles. It is planned to add several more pieces before the room is put to actual use by the women jurors.

The room was set aside at the instance of Judge Edgar V. Werner of Circuit court who has agitated for it for considerable time past on the ground that there was no available space in the court room for women serving on the jury to spend their time when they were not engaged in jury work.

Socks And Shirts Are Two Most Important Items In Men's Wardrobe; Silk Socks Worn Only With Tuxedo

BY CURTIS WOOD

New York — Socks and shirts—these are the two fastest selling bits of men's haberdashery at this time of the year and a decided switch from last season's fashion dictates has been noted by this writer on his browsing about the Fifth Avenue and other leading Gotham shops.

Socks and shirts are changed with a frequency that is astounding, especially in summer weather when a fresh supply is a boon to comfort and a natty supply is an aid to style.

INSIDE DOPE

Here is what a leading men's clothier told me about the covering for those here now, pedal extremities: "French and German hosiery socks are most popular. It is an old fallacy that the well dressed man wears silk. Silks are out. That is, they are out as far as everyday wear is concerned although an occasional full-fashioned in-grain black is popular with a Tuxedo, full evening dress or even a frock coat.

This clothier, incidentally, revealed a bit of inside information, that has to do with the sizes of men's socks, that I had never heard. It seems American socks are made in only two sizes, 9½ and 11. The sizes 10 and 10½ that we think we are buying are merely stretched or shrunk, as the case may be, from the first mentioned models.

HOW ITS DONE
The 9½ forms are, for instance, taken out and dipped in water and stretched on special machines to fit a No. 10 foot. A slightly larger machine is used for the No. 10½ foot and so on. The best grade of silk to buy, he confides, is the dyed-in-the-grain sock that "rasps" when you crumple it in your hands. This particular sock has been dyed in the yarn and has absorbed more tint than the dipped sock. Gray — Tan — Chocolate — Blue — Cream.

Those are the "Big Five" in the color division. Gray heads the list in popularity and tan comes next. Gray will harmonize with almost anything and the next time you lay in a supply of socks and want to be sure they will go well with your lemon colored sport shoes, your tan or black business oxfords, buy gray. You can't go wrong. And be sure they are lisle. They are more durable and the thing as far as the present mode is concerned.

FRENCH AND GERMAN
French lisle leads the list. They are imported and sell at $2.50 a pair and up to $5. The average man cannot afford to go that high and a fine German lisle can be procured at $1 and $1.50.

The very latest shirtings now include a galaxy of cross stripes, checks and light lisle stripes, all on broad-cloth backgrounds.
"Man has learned how to wear color and now is recovering from his spree of several past summers," said this popular Fifth Avenue haberdashery. "The salient complexion, the ruddy cheeks, the red heads, the brunettes and the blondes all know the particular coloring in shirting that his type requires."

HIGH PRICES GOING
The day of the high priced shirt is going. Collar attached types are coming back strongly with neat and narrow cuffs and flowing (but not too flowing) collars. This type is genuine broadcloth sells at $2, $3 and $7. It is the latest thing for summer wear. Many men make the mistake of going in for too fine and too light a shirting in the summer months. Perspiration, automobile seat covers, rolled and wrinkled sleeves are death on the "dainty" shirting. Get a serviceable broadcloth and you can't go wrong.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

T HEN Scouty saw just where he was, it frightened him a bit because he wasn't used to riding round in bird's beaks. Not at all. The pelican soared through the air. Then Scouty got another scare. He saw the ground was far below and feared that he would fall.
To see him was a funny sight. He sat right in the bill all right. Of course you know that Pelicans have bills of monstrous size. Well, just imagine Scouty's thought when in this big bill he was caught. He figured he'd be swallowed like some bumble bees or flies.
But Mister Pelican was kind. He sailed along and didn't mind that he was taking Scouty on a queer trip through the air. They sailed along till almost night, till Scouty figured "I'm all right. I guess I'll take a little nap." And so he closed his eyes.
When he woke up, he shortly found that they were right down near the ground. The bird moved on quite rapidly and skittered through the trees. He'd fly real fast, and then real slow, and Scouty wondered where they'd go. By this time fright had left him and he took the ride with ease.

Then voices rose up from below. "Why, who is calling? But I know," said Scouty, and he took one peek, and found that he was right. The Tinymites were on the beach and Scouty plainly heard them screech. "You'd better come on down here now, before the dark of night."
The bird then dropped to beat the band and shortly landed on the sand. It walked up to the Tinymites who gazed at it. And then, it opened up its beak real wide and Scouty promptly stepped outside. And as he stepped all the bunch, he said, "I'm home again."

TEACH YOUR CHILD TO THINK OF OTHERS AND HE WON'T BE SELFISH

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

EDITOR'S NOTE — "THOU SHALT NOT TEACH HIM SELFISHNESS" is the third of TEN COMMANDMENTS OF CHILD TRAINING which Olive Roberts Barton gives in this article. It is the fourth of a series of fifteen.

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
A THIRD commandment in child training is, "Thou shalt not be selfish." This is a very important one, for a child who is selfish will never be happy. He will never be able to get on with his fellow men. He will never be able to get on with his fellow men. He will never be able to get on with his fellow men.

STRIPES FIND PLACE IN CALL FOR BEACH COATS

A beach wrap comprising a sleeveless coat and separate accompanying cape contributes an interesting feature to the bathing apparel. Among the suits, printed silks and applique dresses are given first place. The fashioning of silk shorts in snugly fitting models that suggest knickers is another salient feature.

RATINE APPLIQUE IN TAFFETA
The beach wrap mentioned is fashioned of ratine and is embellished around the lower part of coat and cape with futuristic appliques of taffeta in several blending shades.
Contrasting pings and borders are important decorative details in the suits of printed satin or crepe, and usually introduced a sharply contrasting color. In one suit printed in a scattered floral design in navy blue and white, a wide cherry color border edges the surplice closing. In a satin suit printed in a full petaled floral pattern, the contrasting note is introduced in a scalloped binding.

BARBER-POLE STRIPES
A variation of the striped theme is contributed by a suit with stripes described as the "barber-pole" type. This arrangement is expressed usually in two tones of the same color. The applique suits in two tones of jersey or an jersey and crepe are represented in a variety of models.

Among the beach coats printed challis, flannel and crash woven so as to simulate embroidery, are the chief fabrics favored. Combinations of jersey and crepe with the jersey section shirred onto the lower part of the coat also are displayed.

TIME SAVER
When hanging clothes of the line, put all of the same kind together—shirts, slacks, etc. It will save time sorting later.

FRESH VEGETABLES
Spinach, cabbage, beans, peas and other fresh vegetables lose much of their vitamin value if cooked too long. A few minutes suffice for them all.

SUPPER DISH
Escalloped corn, with a layer of tomatoes alternating with the corn, with chives, makes an appetizing hot dish for supper.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

"What's the big idea, Sis?" A family pow-wow.

"Leave" Lane, very conscious of his new dignity as a husband and of his twenty-two and half years, strode briskly into the Lane living room in the shabby little house in Myrtle street. "Come on in, Fay!" he called back over his shoulder to the girl who hesitated in the doorway. "You're family too, sweet child. Isn't she a sweet child, Faith?" the boy's voice went suddenly warm and rich with prideful love as he saw the pretty girl into his arms and challenged his sister with his glowing dark eyes.

"She's a sweet child and a pretty woman, as well as the happiest looking wife I ever saw," Faith answered generously, her own hand reaching instinctively toward Bob Hathaway, who sat beside her on the cretonne-covered sofa. "I hope I shall be as to come along this, but I don't know what's going to become of the family, now that your Ma's gone. But—" he sighed heavily and uttered the words which had so often exasperated Martha Lane—"such is life! Such is life!"

"Yes, Dad," Faith smiled at him. "Children just will grow up and get married. Joy will be doing it herself before we realize it. I hope you're glad, Dad."

"Bob's a mighty nice chap. Couldn't ask for a better son-in-law, I reckon," Jim Lane agreed. "Guess you'll be leaving to make a home of your own?" It was a question, rather than a statement, ending on a high note of querulous self-pity.

"That's what I want to talk about," Faith told him quickly. "I've told Bob all along that I wouldn't leave you—and I won't. Nor Joy, nor Cherry. You all need me, and I—I need you, all of you," she assured them bravely.

"You've sacrificed yourself often enough for us," Cherry surprised them all by flaring up in defense of her sister, of whose selfishness she had made use all her life. "I'll stay here and keep house for Dad and Joy."

"You forget, Cherry, darling, that you're not going to be well enough to work for very long. Why, honey, you're going to need me more than any of the others."

"I hate myself!" Cherry's hands dropped from Bob's hand and clenched against her breast. "I don't want to have a baby—Chris' baby! I'm not married, really. It's not fair. I've had enough to bear without this! Oh, I hate Chris!"

"Everybody listen please," Faith cried, forcing herself to ignore her sister's outburst. "This is what Bob and I have planned to do. If the worst comes, you don't know those two houses you built for Bob in Enfield, Dad? You didn't know then that you were building your future home, did you? For Bob and I, and you and Joy and Cherry are going to live in the corner house."

"Well, I like that!" "Long" blustered, forgetting his dignity. "Where do Fay and I come in?"

"You don't come in," Faith laughed. "You stay right here, if you like the house well enough. You can pay Dad rent for it, and make it into an awfully nice little home for two. And plenty of room for expansion of the family," she smiled significantly.

"Well," Jim Lane considered, pleased at being a prospective landlord. "I reckon fifty dollars a month would be about right."

"Cherry," Faith turned to her sister appealingly. "I hope we can make you happy and comfortable, darling. You're sure you won't go back to Chris? Not that I want you to," she added quickly, "but I want to have things settled today."

"I told Chris after the trial was over that I was going to get a divorce as soon as possible," Cherry answered. "He doesn't know there's going to be a baby. I'd rather die than let him know!" she added, with passionate vehemence.

They had already been far too much publicity for the ill-fated Lane family. Faith thought, with a brief recurrence of the bitterness she had known when Cherry's name had been blazoned on the front page of every newspaper in the country. But it was all over now. She tried to comfort herself. Cherry had been cleared of the charge of murdering old Mr. Cluny on the day they were to have been married. She and Bob had discovered the real murderer. Hutchinson, who was soon to be tried.

Faith realized, as her eyes wandered lovingly from one face to another, that their future would not be an easy one to work out happily. Cherry hated the man, Christopher Wiley, for whom she had blighted her million-dollar future. And now she was to be the mother of his child, a child she did not want. Pleasure-loving, beautiful, pampered little Cherry, who had become, for a brief hour of glory following her notoriety as an accused murderess, a national heroine, would not easily reconcile herself to being a wife who was yet no wife, a girl and yet not a girl, for she was to become a mother.

And a dark premonition stirred in Faith's heart, warned her that Cherry's incorrigible flirt that she had been, was not through with love and play at all. Cherry's hands fluttered over Bob's hair.

What if Cherry had never really loved him? What if Bob Hathaway, even if she had been so infatuated with Chris Wiley that she had eloped with him on the very night of her wedding to another man? Cherry had had Bob's love first. He had come to her—Faith—only after Cherry had proved untrustworthy. Was she foolishly tempting fate in arranging for her adored little sister to live with her and the man who would soon be her husband?

"It's all settled then?" Faith asked. "Bob and I want to be married as soon as we can get the house furnished. Now, let's all go and see the new house."

Faith laughed, but her eyes, as they sought Bob's were shadowed with a faint worry. Was she doing the best thing? But—what else could she do? Oh, she loved them all! She wanted to spread her arms and gather them all to her breast, forcing them all to love each other enough and yet not too much, protecting them from themselves and from the world.

Bob's eyes, as brilliant as blue sapphires, seemed to leap at her with love and understanding.

WHIRLWIND OF YOUTH AT FISCHER'S APPLETON THEATRE
Red Carter, nut comedian, and popular Master of Ceremonies of "The Whirl of Mirth," the first summer presentation offering at Fischer's Appleton Theatre has been keeping audiences in a continuous uproar at every performance. Red has another bagful of surprises and several carloads of new hits for the change. Thursday and Friday, Clementine Degama, the winsome little blues singer and dancer will offer several new hits in her own delightful manner, and it is certain that any who witnessed the first performances of "The Whirl of Mirth" will need no urging to attend the two changes of program, which on Saturday and Sunday will include eighteen new star performers, with Red Carter as Master of Ceremonies at all performances, making this the greatest presentation show ever offered in the Fox River Valley. The seven offering for Thursday and Friday are Paramount's first Lois Moran starring vehicle "The Whirlwind of Youth" with a supporting cast headed by Vera Vorenia, Donald Keith and Alyce Mills that breathes the very spirit of the picture—unthinking, tempestuous youth.

Adapted from the A. Hamilton Gibbs novel "Soundings" we are introduced to Nancy Hawthorne, Jim, her father and brother, a village rustic, Jim Hawthorne, an artist, and his eighteen year old daughter have lived their lives in a tiny rural English village. Nancy, protected from the world, invisible convent walls around her, is unable to combat life when it attacks her in the form of a former playmate's declaration of love. She doesn't know what to do in her dilemma. Jim, realizing Nancy has yet to live, sends her to Paris. The girl finds adapting herself to the changed environment a difficult task. In the process she meets Cornelia Evans, a peppy sophisticated English worldling. Then comes Bob Whitaker, Cornelia's friend, and with him something which Nancy believes to be her one Great Love. He, a bit of a philanderer, is attracted to this naive country lass but imagines her to be "just another girl." With Cornelia's brother, Larry, the trio sets out to spend a weekend at the seashore and it is there, while separated from the others, that Nancy's love for Bob reaches the surface and bubbles over. However, Bob refuses to take it, believing himself unworthy of her affection. Thinking to cure Nancy, he arranges affairs so that she sees him kiss another woman. Heartbroken, the girl returns to England. But time only serves to deepen her affection when war is declared. Everything is forgotten in the rush of mobilization but months later a Red Cross ambulance drives up to a French inn just behind the trench lines. The driver enters and there—but see "The Whirlwind of Youth."

READ SMASH-UP PROVIDES THRILLS
No train wreck scene in a long time has graced the screen with as much veracity and thrilling realism as the one in "Red Signals" at the New Bijou today and Thursday. A true picture of railroad life is strikingly presented, with Wallace MacDonald, Eva Novak, and Earle Williams heading a distinguished cast of players. Thrills, spills, tears, laughter abound in this well-balanced drama, and it not only affords educational value but interesting screen entertainment as well. The climax of the film is a breaking scene over rough country roads in pursuit of a runaway engine, to which is attached a freight car filled with high explosives. In the cab of the engine two men fight desperately for mastery—one a hardened criminal seeking revenge on his employers and loot for himself and his band, the other a mysterious young hobo who has secured a position on the railroad as a fireman. The battle—and its result—make up a whirlwind finish to a film crammed in every reel with thrills and exciting sequences.

MINNESOTA BOTTLERS TEST WISCONSIN LAW

Madison—(AP)—The Fitzer Co. a bottling works concern of Duluth, Minn., will file suit against C. J. Kriemer, state dairy and food commissioner in the Dane co circuit court in the near future. Mr. Kriemer was advised by a summons served Wednesday. The plaintiff charges that the subdivision of the Wisconsin statutes, providing that every out-of-state bottling works must pay a fee of $25 for every flavor of soft-drink beverages it sells in the state, is void and unconstitutional. The plea to be submitted by Olin and Butler, local attorneys for the Fitzer Co., holds that on May 28 Mr. Kriemer demanded samples of their product and payment of $25 for each of said beverage having a flavor or name.

ROSENBERY URGES ORGANIZATION NEEDS TO STATE LAWYERS

Supreme Court Justice Declares Mass Action Necessary; Individualism Lost

Green Bay, Wis., (P)—Expressing confidence in the integrity of the profession, Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry of the state supreme court, Wednesday declared that the bar should sense the value and necessity of organization.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Bar Association, Justice Rosenberry said the bar has remained more individualistic in thought and action than any other group of citizens. "However," he said, "lawyers must realize that, while individualism is a priceless thing, if they are to be heard in this world of organized and coordinated interests they must speak through an organization as well as individually."

"This is the day of mass action in every field of human activity. We are governed by mass decree—the voice of the individual is lost in the conflict of mass interests. The regimentation of society has gone so far that the voice of the individual is little more than a cry in the wilderness."

"That is the melancholy truth. We look to the masses for leadership and competent leadership is not to be found there. We would do well to advise ourselves with the same wisdom and clearness of vision that we advise our clients. It is the wife of the shoemaker who goes without shoes."

UNION OF INTERESTS
The justice reviewed the organization of the Wisconsin association and stated that the fifty-first anniversary would be celebrated in Madison next June. Members now realize that if the bar is to exert an influence at all commensurate with the standing and ability of the members, he said, it must be done by strengthening the organization.

"We must build up a feeling of professional solidarity and unity of interests," he said. "We need not sacrifice our individuality as lawyers in order to unite our common interests in an aggressive and effective organization."

Turning to public service rendered by the bar, Justice Rosenberry said lawyers should embrace opportunities for such service even though it involves the sacrifice of personal and professional ambitions. "I am not entirely in sympathy with those who charge the bar with commercialism"

NEW "U" PROFESSOR TO CONDUCT RURAL INQUIRY

Madison—(P)—When Dr. Joseph Kippmott Hart, New York, comes to the University of Wisconsin in the fall to take up a professorship in the department of education he will start, with president Glenn Frank, an investigation into rural adult education.

This is to be done with a view to consideration of the possibilities of utilizing the facilities of the university agricultural and extension departments for education of grown-ups outside the cities.

The adult schools of Denmark are cited by the university president as examples of the educational facilities into which he, with Dr. Hart, proposes to inquire.

JEBO SCHOOL TO HOLD SPECIAL SUMMER TERM

A six weeks summer term at the Jebo school of music will start June 27 and continue through until August 6. Prof. F. H. Jebo, director of the school, has announced. More than 100 enrollments have been made from the regular pupils at the school and others may register at any time, the director said.

Six of the teachers of the school will be included on the summer staff. A special course in orchestra music, and classes in appreciation and harmony will be offered as well as the regular classes.

and the abandonment of professional ideals for commercial gain. The lawyer who fails to be impressed with a public interest will soon discover his error in the fact that the plan of his client which he approved has failed and miscarried.

"The lawyer who serves his client with breadth of vision, deep knowledge and accurate observation will in doing so render a great public service."

PROFESSIONAL ADMISSION

The speaker also suggested that the profession "guard the door through which persons seeking admission to the bar must enter" in order to minimize dishonest representatives in the profession. He made the suggestion that candidates "otherwise qualified who have passed the character examination be admitted provisionally for a period of five years. At the end of the period, candidates are to produce before the court admitting them to practice, evidence of compliance with the ethical standards and professional traditions of the bar. If found insufficient, the candidate may then be refused admission and his rights as a practicing lawyers cease."

Barn Dance, Henry Rohe, Sherwood Road, Wed., June 22.

NAME LEADERS FOR GREEN LAKE CAMP CHURCH CONFERENCE

Congregational Young People to Hold Second Meet at Northland College

Five laymen and clergymen of First Congregational church will be included among the camp leaders at the summer conference of Wisconsin Congregational young people, July 6 to 13 at Green Lake. It has been announced.

The full quota of young people of the local church, 12, will attend the conference. A second summer convention will be held at Northland college June 18 to 25, because of lack of facilities for entertaining the surplus registration which could not be cared for at Green Lake.

Dr. T. W. Gammon of Chicago, associate secretary of the Congregational society, will be in charge of the Green Lake conference. Counselors include Miss Mary B. Stevens and Mrs. J. W. Wilson, of Appleton. Other Appleton representatives among the camp leaders are Dr. J. W. Wilson, district superintendent of the Congregational church, Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor of the First Congregational church, and Miss Mary Orison, public school nurse.

The Green Lake convention, with facilities for approximately 150, has accepted reservations for that number and arrangements are being made to take care of all registrations which cannot be changed for the earlier meeting. More than 50 reservations had been made for the Northland conference.

The conferences will be conducted throughout on a religious basis with hours set aside for religious study and training. The Rev. Charles E. Reidt, Fond du Lac, will act as camp director.

SCHNEIDER ASKED TO WATER LEVEL MEET

Congressman George J. Schneider has received an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. Allan H. Tripp of Oshkosh to attend a dinner at Gill's Landing next Sunday. Mr. Tripp is the president of the association for the Relief of High Waters. The invitation states that some members of the Winnebago-Co board will also be invited to the dinner. Matters regarding the water level will be discussed.

LIBRARY REPORTS HEAVY PATRONAGE

An unusual volume of business for the summer has been reported at the Appleton public library in the past weeks, according to Miss Florence C. Day, librarian. Almost as many borrowers come to the library as in the dull part of the winter.

The cold weather this year may account for the increase in business. As a rule, when school is dismissed the trade at the library falls off considerably. Business is almost as brisk as prior to school's closing, she reported.

CAN'T SELL PIKE CAUGHT IN STATE

New Statute Does Not Apply to Green Bay, Lake Michigan or Lake Superior

It is now unlawful to sell pike caught in inland waters of Wisconsin, fishermen of Appleton and vicinity are warned by the state conservation commission. The statute which prohibits the sale of pike was passed recently.

Several violators have taken place near Appleton but wardens have concluded that the unlawful sales were consummated in ignorance of the law. In the future the violators will be apprehended and prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

According to the provisions of the law, the statute does not apply to Green Bay, Lake Michigan or Lake Superior, but it does apply to all waters in Wisconsin, thereby definitely including Lake Winnebago, the Fox river, and all adjacent waters. The law applies all the year around.

Fishermen also are warned not to exceed the limit in catching white bass which now are at the climax of their season's run. Twenty-five is the limit. White bass fishing is said to be the best in many seasons and night fishing has proved popular and profitable.

Your Question And Its Answer

J. A. PANNECK, D. C.
DOCTOR OF CHIROPRACTIC

QUESTION—I have had Asthma for several years. Tried medicine and advertised remedies with no results. Can anything be done for it?—L. S. I.

ANSWER—It is quite probable that the things have to be done. First, get you over the evil effects of powders and other nostrums you have inhaled and smoked, and which were presumed to cure your asthma. Most of these touted remedies, if they had any effect, had a bad effect, being injurious to the numerous nerve filaments that supply the mucous membranes of the nasal passages and the muscular coat of Bronchi. In the end two troubles grow where but one originally existed.

If you are really sincere in wanting to get rid of your Asthma and will spend the necessary time to accomplish it, which will be several months, all well and good, but remember, no powders or medicine. If you don't want to play fair with yourself and your Chiropractor by doing what he tells you, then don't waste his time and your money for a couple of weeks. Adjustments and expect to be freed of Asthma ever after. It's not likely to happen. If you spend several months under his care, being regular in your visits as he instructs you, your chances are excellent. It's all up to you.

QUESTION—I am thirty years of age. Been sick for five years. Doctored with medicine and advertised remedies. Seems that I am better while I take it, but after awhile I feel the same trouble again. What is your opinion?—B. L. I.

ANSWER—The Wall Street Journal asks who is Health better than Wealth? And answers probably because it cannot be borrowed. Very true. Health can neither be borrowed nor purchased, nor does anyone hand it to you as a gift. You have it if your spine is right; if it isn't you haven't and there is but one possibility of getting it. That is—get your spine in good condition. Take adjustments.

This department is edited to spread the better knowledge of Chiropractic as a possible method of correcting the cause of sickness and interests of better community health. Inquiries of practical value will be answered in order received.

COUNCIL APPOINTS BOARD OF REVIEW
City Bath House Will Be Opened in About Week — to Hire Caretaker

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The Peopke, Peter J. Laux and Henry Knapstein were appointed as members of the board of review at the regular meeting of the common council Tuesday evening. The mayor and city clerk are ex-officio members of the board. The board will review the city's budget for two weeks, beginning the first Monday in July, in order to adjust taxation matters where complaints were made.
The council also ordered the committee on public property to make preparations for opening the city bath house, it is expected that the bath house will be opened within a week.
Two applications for building permits were granted by the council. August Meinhardt was permitted to erect a garage on N. Water-st. next to the Toddler Togs building. The garage will be conducted by a son of Mr. Meinhardt.
Henry W. Spearbraker was granted permission to move his residence, at the intersection of W. Beacoe-ave and Wyman-st. The building now faces on W. Beacoe-ave.
Licenses to sell non-intoxicating liquor were granted to the following: L. A. Manske, C. W. Hickey, Edward Meshke, Frank Herres, Fred Eberwald, G. A. Sautell and Matthew Clark.
The council instructed the city clerk to purchase a small carload of calcium chloride, for use on the city streets this summer.

New London — Mrs. Leonard Lehrman of this city suffered a fracture of right knee and severe bruises Tuesday evening in an automobile collision at the intersection of state highway 25 and the Dale road, near the Hortonville town hall. The Lehrman machine driven by Mr. Lehrman, was on its way to Appleton while the other automobile, owned and driven by Edward McNutt of the town of Hortonville, was approaching the highway from the Dale road when the collision occurred. Mr. McNutt was accompanied by two grandchildren, one of whom, Gladys, was slightly bruised. Mrs. Lehrman was taken to a New London hospital. The Lehrman machine was damaged about the hood and fenders, while the front end of the McNutt car was badly smashed.

A table of bungee also was in play. Miss Rachael Veli winning first prize, and Mrs. Herman Ladwig, low. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Harvey Ames of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Paul Lisgett of Detroit, Mich.

BORDEN EMPLOYEES TO GIVE BENEFIT SOCIAL

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A benefit dance and box social will be given at the Wendland hall at Bean City Friday evening by the employees of the local Borden Condensory plant. Boxes will be auctioned at 10 o'clock. The affair will be open to all employees, their families and their friends. The boxes will be provided by the women in attendance.
Proceeds will be given to the New London Community hospital to apply toward the hospital expense of Miss Viola Schoepke of Wittenberg. Miss Schoepke was an employee of the Borden plant until a few weeks ago when she was forced to submit to an operation for the amputation of her left leg as the result of a sarcoma, which developed from an apparently slight injury to the knee. A fund was started recently among the employees of this plant and approximately $70 was raised, which amount already has been turned over to the hospital toward her expenses. It is probable that Miss Schoepke will be able to leave the hospital soon, but will be obliged to remain in this city with relatives for medical care.

FUNERAL SERVICES ARE HELD FOR C. A. PETERS

Special to Post-Crescent
Fremont—Funeral services were held for Charles A. Peters at 1 o'clock at the home and at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Zion Lutheran church, Readfield. Rev. Ferdinand Weyland officiated. Burial was in Zion Lutheran cemetery, Readfield.

The deceased, son of Charles Peters and Rosa Shubeluski, was born in the town of Wolf River, July 14, 1876, and was fifty-six years old at the time of his death. Monday, at Mercy hospital, Oshkosh. In 1896 he was married to Anna Brums, when he came to his late residence on a farm two miles east of the village.

He was prominent in political and social affairs of the town of Fremont, and held various town offices. He was town chairman of the Waupaca.

co. board of supervisors which position he held for 19 years.
He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Peters, four sons, Charles, George, Henry and John, all of Fremont; four daughters, Freda, Mrs. Steenboch, Ogdensburg, Bernice and Emma, and one brother, George, of Fremont.
The pall bearers were the four sons, Charles, George, Henry and John and two nephews, Joseph and Herbert Peters.
Many out of town people attended the funeral. A section of the church was reserved for about 60 Waupaca-co board members and county officers, who attended the funeral.

Leo Jensen of Brushville suffered minor bruises, scalp wounds and probable internal injuries when he jumped from a runaway horse and buggy that overturned at the bank corner in the village, Thursday noon. The runaway vehicle started from the livery barn, raced down main street, and passed between the Wolf River Valley Co-operative store and the Teska garage.

The horses loosed themselves from the buggy when it caught under a telephone guy wire, and returned to the livery barn. Mr. Jensen's injuries were treated by Dr. Schulz.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

by Clara Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED

F. Q. CURTIS, millionaire department store owner, takes three girls from his establishment into his home as his wards for one year because he wants to help them further ambitions each has expressed. BILLY WELLS, anxious to be a concert violinist, is the only one that is sincere. NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON lie to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity.

Billy becomes infatuated with DAL ROMANINE, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, the hostess. Dal is also "playing" Winnie, who is in love with him. Billy loses interest in her violin.

Billy observes this and also that Nyda, who says she wants to be a kindergarten teacher, is not interested in her work. Winnie tries to win her way into T. Q.'s affections by offering to do his letters for him in the evenings.

T. Q. discovers his safe is robbed by someone on the "inside." Suspicion points to Billy and she calls on CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, to help her. Clay has disinherited himself and is living with the Wells family in a poor part of town, working in a factory by day and writing at night. Clay forces a confession of the robbery from Nyda and EDDIE RANXING, her former sweetheart. They also admit having been married the entire year. Winnie Shelton finds a legal paper in T. Q.'s desk, showing that Billy is to be adopted by him and in order not to be defeated, Winnie calls T. Q. to her room and there tricks him into a proposal of marriage. VIOLA, the maid, whom Winnie has bribed to witness the situation gives the ruse away. T. Q. is stunned and calls Billy and Mrs. Meadows to the library and tells them what has happened. When Billy is left alone with him she confesses that the three girls knew all along he intended to adopt one of them and she tells him they have not played fairly with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVI

"Maybe I didn't scheme and try to hurt Nyda's and Winnie's chances," Billy told T. Q. Curtis, "but for months I have hoped that I would win."

"Why, Billy? Why did you chance your mind?" You told Clay you said that you wanted only the year—the year in which to study the violin and prepare yourself for a career. Can you have a little more patience with an old man, a puzzled, heartbroken old man, my dear, and try to explain?"

"I'll try," she said huskily. "It all began when Nerrati told me it would take years and years for me to become a great violinist. I saw then that a year would not do, and I wanted more. Then luxury began to soften me, break my sturdy independence, as Clay used to call it. I couldn't bear the thought of giving up my lovely room and delicate food and dancing and popularity with the kind of people I had always admired and wanted to be friends with. I became extravagant, bought clothes I couldn't afford, even on the big allowance you gave me. I used to go home and hate the little house in Poplar street where mother and Clay have seemed to be so happy. Oh, it sounds so tawdry—it is tawdry!" she amended bitterly.

"I think I understand," T. Q. prodded her gently. "Billy said to me, 'Don't speak like that to me, as if you still liked me.' Billy cried out in anguish. 'I'm not worth it, Mr. Curtis, any more than Nyda and Winnie are. Can't you see I'm not? The same things happened to them that happened to me. Nyda was trapped. She was married to a man whom she came to despise although I believe she still loved him. Men like Bruce Kruger and Ralph Truman and Gil Warburton made Eddie Banning seem pretty small."

"You're very fair, my dear," T. Q. said thoughtfully.

"Oh, I've had many hours to think it all over!" she assured him bitterly. "Nyda must have been on pins and needles the whole time, wondering just when she would be exposed. Eddie gave her no peace the whole time. Of course he made her go on with it, because she was getting five hundred a month out of you. I'm sure it is Eddie's scheme to rob the safe, and that Nyda was simply scared into helping him. Winnie had the same thing happen to her as happened to me. She couldn't bear the idea of coming back to poverty and to clerking in the store. She knew she would never make a success as a private secretary—and what if she could have done so? The most she could have earned the first year or so would have been thirty or thirty-five dollars a week, and she'd been dressing on five hundred dollars a month! When she found that all her efforts to endear herself to you, to make herself indispensable had failed—"

"And do you know why it was you and not Winnie who won T. Q.?" inquired Billy, with a quizzical smile breaking through his dejection.

"No," Billy answered, surprised. "I haven't had time to wonder—but I do wonder! I can't see why—"

"I've been fairly sure it would be you since the first month," T. Q. told her gently. "You were the only one who had a genuine ambition, who had not resorted to a trick. You really wanted to be a violinist. You had genius, you were inherently a worthwhile person, a girl I could be proud of as my daughter. But Nyda and Winnie, sweet as I thought them, had tricked me in answering the questionnaire and in writing the essays—"

"Then—you knew all the time that Nyda didn't really want to be a kindergarten teacher and that Winnie would never be a real secretary, because she really didn't want to be?" Billy asked incredulously.

"Of course, my dear!" He smiled again, with a touch of his old humor. "I'm not such a fool as you girls may have thought me! I admit that during the year I have been sadly disappointed because you did not make the most of your opportunity to study music—"

"I neglected it shamefully!" Billy cried. "I'd give you anything in the world to have the opportunity all over again—"

"But she interrupted herself, knowing that for the first time during that painful confession she had said a lie. She would not give anything in the world to have the year again, for more than she wanted fame, she wanted love, and love meant—"

"I have not changed my mind because of your dreadful confession," T. Q. said, with the smile still on his lips. "I still want you, Billy, as my daughter. I had hoped—"

"—that you might be my daughter-in-law, and that Presley Warburton would have won his wager after all that I would not go through with my scheme to adopt a daughter. But—I suppose that is all off, my dear?"

"Yes," answered in a low voice, and again she was surprised to feel the sharp stab of pain in her heart that always caught her when she thought of Clay Curtis. "But I—I can't do it, Mr. Curtis. I—oh, please don't ask me any more!"

"I was sure, absolutely sure," T. Q. went on, as if he had not heard her words, "when I saw how you bore yourself under my unjust suspicions at the time of the safe robbery. It was then that I had Warburton draw up the papers on the adoption. Now that I understand you, other than completely, Billy, can't you give me any real reason why you don't want to stay on? You can study music for as many years as you like, go to Europe to study if you wish, and I shall only ask that I may spend part of my time there with you. I am thinking of selling the store. This year has tired me out. It is not the same place, since jealousy and intrigue have become floorwalkers there," he admitted sadly.

Billy's resolution wavered. She was about to stretch out her hand to him in surrender when the thought of Dal Romanine restrained her. T. Q. thought he could trust her—utterly—but she knew that it was not for the sake of music that she had wanted to win the secret contest. She had wanted, these last months, to win so that she might be more desirable in Dal's eyes. She was engaged to be married to Dal Romanine. No, she could not accept T. Q.'s offer, for she knew that T. Q. disliked Romanine intensely.

She was not even tempted for a moment, after she had worked the thing out rapidly in her mind, to take T. Q.'s offer, no matter what effect her refusal would have upon Dal. If he loved her, he would want her for herself alone. Why had she doubted him? Dal did not, could not know of T. Q.'s plan to adopt one of the girls. He had proposed to her, knowing at the end of the year she would again be a show girl, without social standings or financial prospects. Of course he loved her! Could any girl ask for better, proof?

"I can't accept your offer, Mr. Curtis," she said at last. "Please don't ask me to explain, though you have every right to. I—I have other plans for my life. Please don't look so—so sad, Mr. Curtis! Clay will come home soon. I'm sure of it. He has moved his point. He has made good independently of you. He will be a rich man, if he wants to be, and if he prefers to spend all his time writing great music, which does not pay well except in soul satisfaction, he will hardly be such a fool to insist on living in poverty. He can at least make enough money with an occasional popular song to pay his part of the living expenses here, and I am sure he will be happy to come home."

"I wish I were sure of it!" T. Q. said sadly. Then he raised his head and squared his shoulders, as if accepting her decision heroically and determining to make the best of it. "I'm sorry, Billy. Strangely enough, I never liked you so well before. I hope you will be very happy, my child."

"May I leave today, Mr. Curtis?" she asked timidly, as they stood together, the old man's arm across her shoulder. "It won't be easy for either of us—after today—"

"I suppose you are right, my dear," he agreed reluctantly.

"If Winnie and I both leave today, there will be less talk than if only Winnie left," he reassured him.

"There's the problem of Viola, the colored girl," T. Q. frowned. "I don't know how to keep her from gossiping."

"I have an idea," Billy grinned up at him with an effort at cheerfulness. "I seem to be very free with your money, Mr. Curtis, but I think it would be wise to pack Viola off to New York. She's been simply dying to go there, because her sweetie's living there now, and so is her married sister. Tell her you'll give her the trip to New York, plus a month's wages, if she'll sign a written agreement never to mention the events of today to anyone. If she gossiped in New York, there could be little harm come of it, but I'll guarantee she won't dare talk here before she goes, or write back home to any of her friends about it."

"Thank you, child," T. Q. said humbly. "I shall follow your advice in both cases. I can see that you would have been a great help to me as my daughter."

Billy flung her arms about his neck then, and kissed him on both cheeks. "You're a darling, and I love you, and I wish I could stay with you forever and ever. I can't thank you in words, but my heart is full of gratitude for all you have done for me—and wanted to do."

She ran from the room to keep from bursting into tears. As she started up the stairs her eyes glanced to glance at the great clock in the hall. Half-past six! Only half-past six. Lives had been wrecked and hearts broken since she had parted with Dal Romanine at five o'clock.

She sped up the stairs, her feet winged by an urgent necessity for haste. And as she flung open the door to her room she was praying incoherently: "Please God, make him be there! Please God!"

Her voice trembled so when she called a number on her telephone that she had to repeat it before the operator understood. It was long minutes—minutes packed with despair—before a soft, caressing voice answered.

VITRIFIED
BRICK PAVEMENTS
FACE THE FUTURE • PAVE WITH BRICK

What Destroys Paving and How Brick Resists It

Weather and traffic-wear destroy pavements not specifically designed to resist them. Unless by their very nature waterproof, pavement surfaces absorb moisture or let it enter through tiny cracks, caused by changing atmospheric conditions. There, freezing and expanding, water increases the damage. Traffic pounding soon finishes the destruction.

Paving brick being vitrified is unchanging. It can't soften under heat; tire chains cannot injure it; it cannot absorb water. Bound with asphalt, water can't get through the surface either. Laid with a resilient sand cushion, brick makes a surface that fully protects the base from traffic shocks. Man does not make a tougher, denser, more utterly durable paving material.

Engineers will confirm these facts. Records will show that brick makes the cheapest of all pavements for roads or streets.

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago.

With The Money That Slips Through Your Fingers You Can Buy A Choice Lot

In a part of the City of Appleton which is bound to develop into a desirable residential section. This is conceded by the foresighted people of this community.

RAIN OR SHINE
This Week Saturday and Sunday
JUNE 25 and 26, 1927

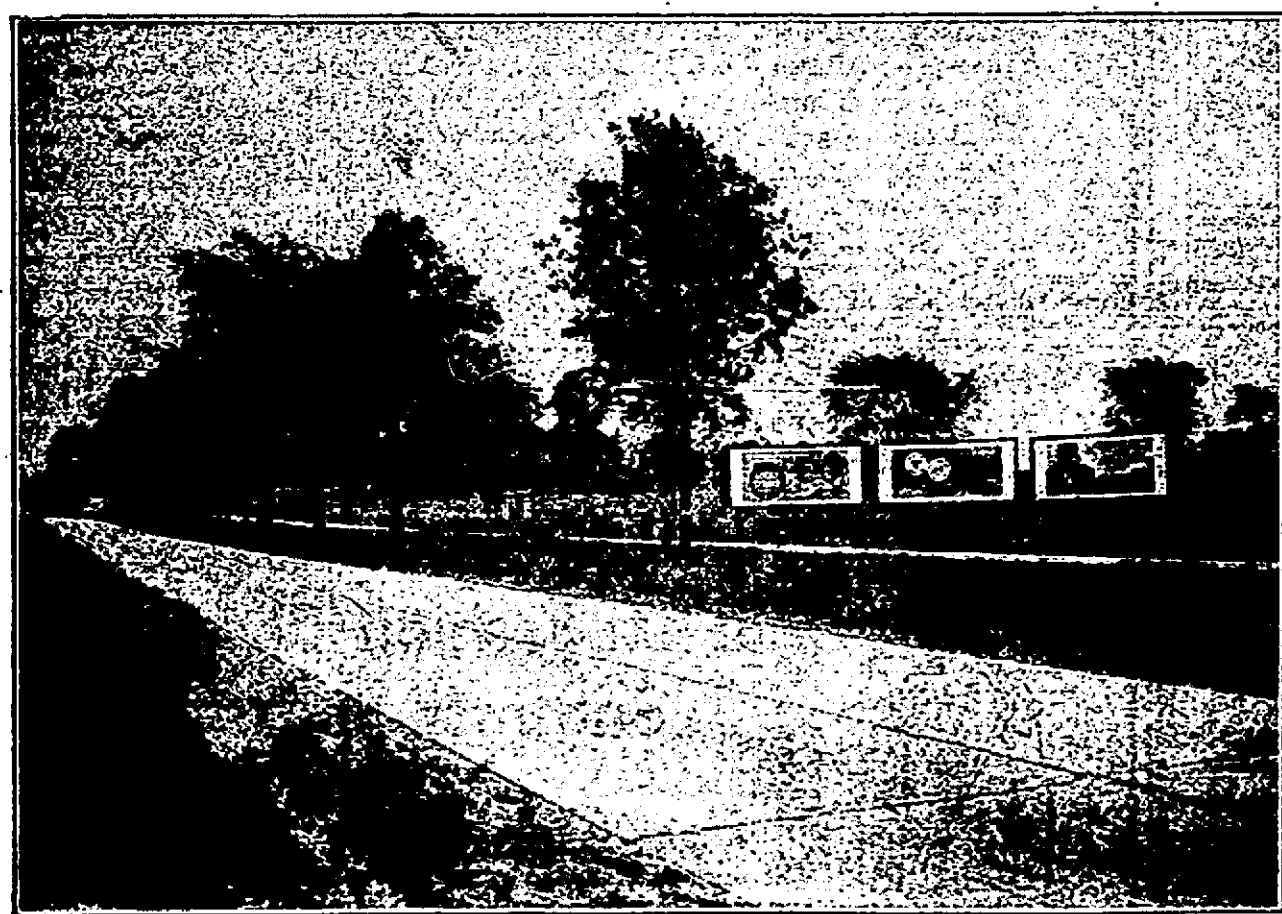

Great Bargain Sale of 56 Valuable Residence Lots

Make a start in life and be a property owner

It is not the Dollar you earn but the Dollar you save that counts. Property is the foundation of all wealth. Everyone can own one of these fine building lots and eventually own a home of his own and stop paying rent. America is the last great freehold of the people. Young Men and Ladies, home-seekers and investors, business men, farmers, both men and women, who are looking for a safe investment, or wish to own a home, grasp this opportunity and secure one or more of these fine large and valuable building lots. This chance may never be offered to you again.

Buy a lot for your son or daughter and give them the pride and feeling of ownership and responsibility. A large percentage of money invested in stocks, etc., is lost. Money wisely invested in real estate cannot be lost and generally grows in value.

NO TAXES FOR 1927!

No restrictions as to how you build on these lots as to size or cost of house. We leave that to your own good judgment. You get your contract or deed and marketable abstract from John Bouten owner of the property with each lot. Payments made at the Appleton State Bank.

This is positively the greatest opportunity ever offered to home-seekers and investors in the city of Appleton, to secure a choice building lot in the best residence section, at a low price and remarkable easy terms. Big discounts for cash, and terms that must naturally appeal to everyone.

No lots will be sold before the time stated. This will give everyone a fair chance to secure whatever lot he wants. You have your pick. All are treated alike.

Lots are all staked and marked with lot number, size and price on a white card which you will pull off and bring to our tent. You can easily pick out the lot you want. Come early and get your choice. We will be on the grounds all day Saturday and Sunday until dark.

Appleton has grown 33% in population in the past 10 years. It is still growing and will continue to grow. There are no vacant lots to be had at reasonable prices within 12 blocks of the center of the city. Anyone wishing to build a home must go beyond that distance from the center of the city.

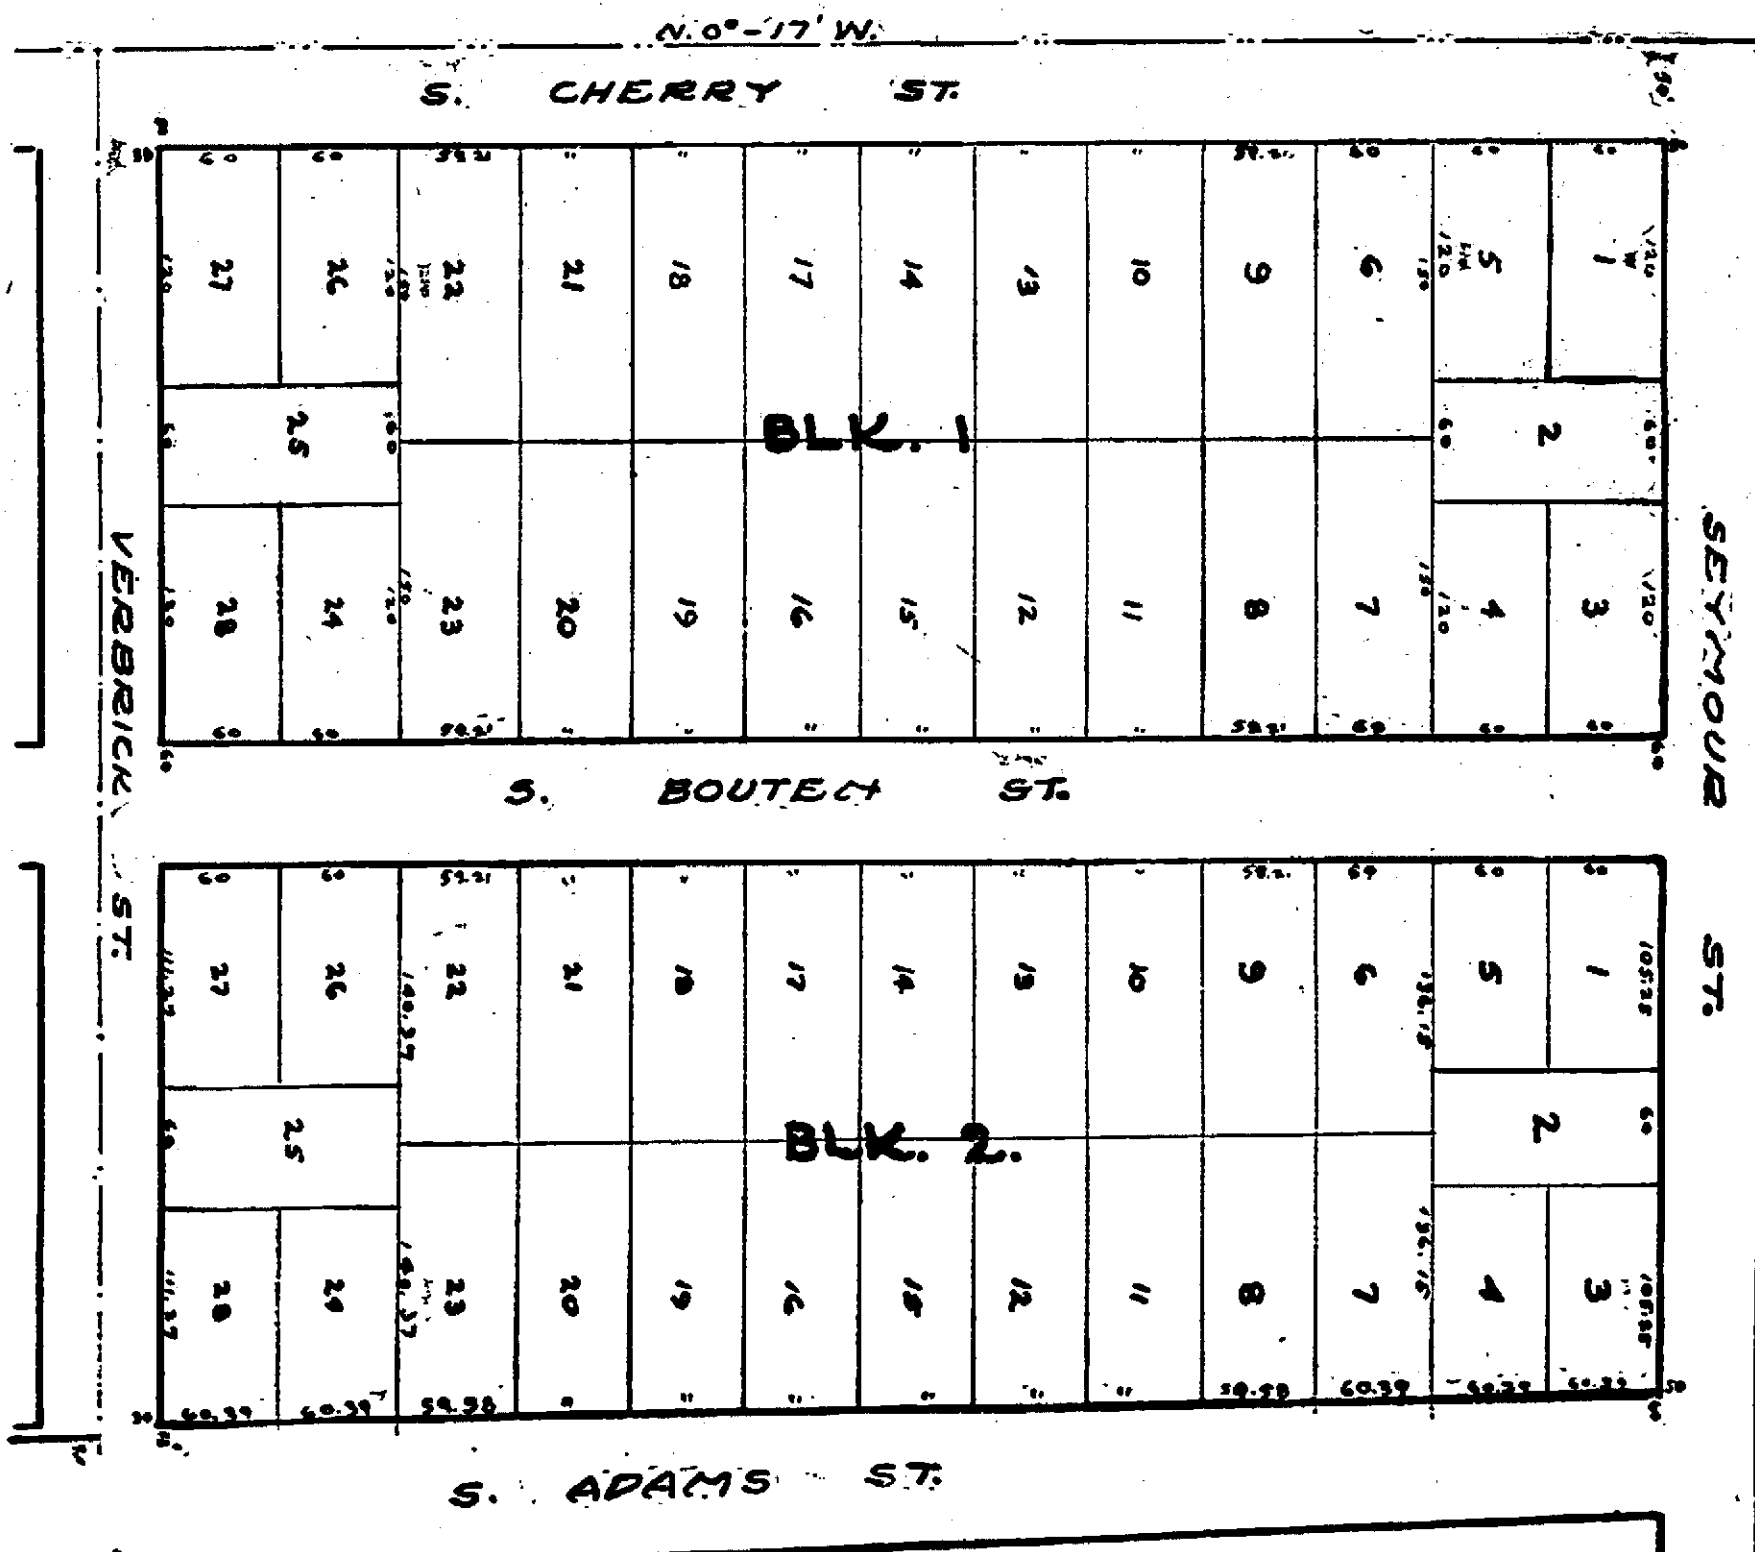

The lots we are offering are just 12 blocks from West College Avenue, and about 3 blocks south of Cherry Street Bridge. Bordered on the west by the beautiful Cherry Street boulevard, on the north by Seymour Street and Golf Grounds, on the east of Adams Street, on the South by Verbrick Street.

Busses pass here every few minutes. Gas, sewer, water and electric available when demand warrants. Size of lots range from 59 by 120 to 60 by 150. All high and dry. Most lots larger than 60 by 120.

ASSETS OF STATE BANKS STEADILY CLIMB SAYS CHIEF

Anderson Avers Resources Not Affected by Wide Installment Buying

Madison (P)—Wisconsin banks are still increasing their resources in spite of installment buying of automobiles, radios, clothing and what not. Knute Anderson, Eau Claire, president of the Wisconsin Bankers' Association, told the visiting delegates to their annual convention of bankers Wednesday.

"While our people are paying for all these things by weekly or monthly payments," the president continued, "our savings deposits are steadily increasing. Credit resources of our banks are expanding more rapidly than the demand for purely commercial loans, forcing more money into the investment field. Sound as such investments are, they nevertheless become a problem because there is no diminution in the demand liabilities of banks."

FINANCIAL POLITICAL INTEREST

"Money rates have become easy, and with the ever increasing competition among banks, the growth of Building and Loan associations, the organization of finance companies and other agencies that compete with banks, the temptation to sacrifice sound banking principles in our effort to secure new business and hold that which we have must be resisted. If the interests of our depositors and stockholders are to be properly safeguarded."

"I want to urge the bankers of Wisconsin to interest themselves more in politics. It seems to me that if there is one body of citizens more than another that should take an active interest in the politics of our state and nation, it is the bankers. We hear it often said that the farmer is the backbone of the nation, and to some extent he is. We also hear from other quarters that the industrialist is the man who keeps the world on its feet. Again I partially agree. But after all, the man who keeps the life blood of agriculture, industry and commerce pumping through the arteries of the whole world is the banker. Because he deals in money and various kinds of credit, it is often charged that he has a desire to own and control all of the money and credit in the world."

SCORES SELFISH INTERESTS

"The demagogue, in their ignorance of economics, do not realize that only through the circulation can the banker himself create any wealth, but these forces refuse to see anything but their

Mothers Relieved Of Worry By Playgrounds

"I know where my children are since the playgrounds opened at the schools. Why wouldn't I think it were the best thing Appleton ever did for its children? one mother answered a Post-Crescent reporter's question. "What do you think of the supervised playgrounds organized this summer?" Every mother interviewed was enthusiastically in favor of directed play under the direction of trained leaders.

An almost unvaried response came from the mothers, that they knew where the children were and that they were safe. "And they like to be there so much I don't worry nor fear they will be wandering off downtown and perhaps being run over by automobiles," another said. She continued that when the playground project was first announced, she thought it would be a splendid thing but was afraid the children would not have as much fun as they had on the corner lot or running wild through the neighborhood. "They seem to like it better. Their games mean more to them and my oldest boy isn't bothered with his little sister tagging after him. There has been less quarreling among the children in the weeks since school closed this year than ever before, she continued.

"My boy is learning how to be a good sport," another mother said. "He had been in a neighborhood where the children were younger than he, and had been lord of the universe," she explained, but now he was rubbing up against other boys his own age and profiting by it.

"It's so quiet around here since the playgrounds started. Always before the children would tear around all day, yelling, shooting firecrackers, and what not, but now it is almost too peaceful with them all over at the school," she finished.

Another mother said she favored the playgrounds because they took her boys away from a crowd of older boys who lived in the neighborhood. There were no children his age living near by, she explained, and she did not like the influence of these older boys who often went to pool rooms and loafed about downtown. "But, there aren't any other kids around own particular selfish interest and care very little for the prosperous state of the nation as a whole.

"Unless every banker interests himself in his local state and national politics, he will have only ourselves to blame if matters do not go right for us."

here to be with, the boy had answered the mother's remonstrances.

"For once my little girl is learning to play games like baseball that her brothers would never let her in on, a mother sighed, relievedly. They always sent her home to play with her dolls, but she wanted to 'play real games,' and at the playground she is playing them.

Several mothers spoke of the usual hubbub when school closed but the playgrounds have solved the problem this summer. The children are about in the morning but they help around the house and yard to some extent in most homes, it was shown. It was the afternoon that witnessed the noise and confusion, and this play period has now been transferred to the playgrounds.

"The evening hours at the playgrounds have relieved me of a lot of worry," another mother said. "I never knew whether my boy and girl were wandering around downtown doing goodness knows what or were safely playing with the children in the next block. And now I never worry about the cars going by the house. Being on a state highway never let me forget to worry other years."

BOARD OKES PLANS FOR PARISH HOUSE

Plans and specifications for the parish house and assembly hall to be erected by the Lutheran Zion congregation have been approved by the Wisconsin Industrial commission, according to a letter received by John N. Weiland, city building inspector.

E. W. Calen, state building inspector, passed on the general plans and specifications and W. C. Muehlstein, building engineer, approved the plans for the heating and ventilation system. H. R. Beske is chairman of the building committee. Bids will be called for soon.

APPLETON BAR AND BENCH WILL ATTEND GREEN BAY MEETING

Annual Convention to Include Many Speakers and Round Table Talks

Practically all members of the Appleton bar as well as the county judiciary will attend one or more sessions of the annual meeting of the State Bar Association in Green Bay, June 22 to 24.

Outstanding members of the bar in Wisconsin and other states as well as academic leaders in the field of law are on the program while the principal feature of the sessions will be round table discussions of problems touching on questions affecting the state legal profession.

Judge Fred V. Heinemann accompanied by a party of seven Appleton lawyers will make the trip to Green Bay Wednesday morning in the judge's yacht "Idler." The yacht will be the headquarters for the Appleton delegation during their stay in Green Bay.

Those in Judge Heinemann's party will be: Alfred C. Bosser, Homer H. Benton, L. Hugo Keller, Paul V. Cary, Thomas H. Ryan, Joseph Witmer, and A. H. Krugmiller.

Judge Edgar V. Werner of Circuit court plans to attend part of the sessions and while in Green Bay he will take care of some of the work of Judge Henry Grass of Circuit court, there.

Judge Theodore Berg of Municipal court will attend the meeting Thursday.

John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney and Stanley A. Stoldt, assistant district attorney, will leave Wednesday and tentatively plan to attend until the meeting is over.

Among the speakers will be Henry

WILL PRESENT SHAKESPEARIAN PLAY IN FALL

Shakespeare's "As You Like It" and "Carmen" will be presented under the auspices of the Appleton Women's club at Lawrence Memorial chapel by Hortense Nielson and the Art Theatre players of New York on Sept. 25, the executive board of the women's club has announced.

This will be the first engagement the players have made in Appleton and the 1927 fall season will include their first appearances in this section of the country.

Green Bay and Fond du Lac will be included in their fall itinerary. The Shakespearean play will be presented in the evening and "Carmen" in the afternoon.

At Bates, dean of the University of Michigan law college, who will speak on legislation and the courts at the opening of the session on Wednesday afternoon; E. J. Dempsey of Oshkosh who will talk on problems of taxation; W. L. Evans of Green Bay who will speak on the history of the bar of Brown-co, Gilbert H. Montague, New York, who will talk on prices fixing and William G. Rice of the University of Wisconsin law college who will speak on the origin, extent and limitations of pardoning powers.

At the round table discussions consideration will be given suggestions to repeal constitutional protection of accused persons from compulsory self-incrimination; suggestions to authorize presiding judges at jury trials to comment upon the weight and credibility of evidence and also of granting permission to the court and counsel to comment upon the failure of the accused to testify in criminal trials.

In addition to these other topics will be discussed.

American-made motion picture films sent abroad last year had a total length of 214,000,000 feet.

Now You Can Be SURE!

This big YELLOW SIGN can be Displayed only where genuine Alemite Lubricants are used

Of course, you know that the surest way to avoid high operating costs is to have your car Alemited every 500 miles. Automotive engineers have long recognized this. That's why the Alemite System is installed as standard equipment on 93% of the motor cars manufactured today.

But the methodical use of the system is only half the story, for the best system in the world will not offset the use of cheap greases. Cheap greases do more harm to a bearing than good. They defeat the purpose of any lubricating system.

When you bring your car to us we lubricate it with genuine Alemite Lubricant—a high quality, absolutely reliable lubricant, which is produced by the makers of the Alemite System. Because of our determination to give you nothing but the best, we are permitted to display the big Yellow Sign which you see at our station. It is your protection—you can be SURE of the utmost in lubrication if you bring your car to us.

Are you fighting against middle-age?

ONE OF the most critical periods of a woman's life comes between 45 and 50. Most women dread the approach of middle-age because they know, only too well, the depressing ailments it brings.

The best preparation for this period a woman can have is a good physical condition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her to gain strength and energy. It builds up the appetite and induces natural sleep. The following letters were written by women of middle-age.

AFTER LONG SUFFERING

South Omaha, Nebraska:—"After fifteen years of terrible suffering each month with sick headaches, I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have felt my health steadily improving. After taking your medicine for almost a year and a half, I believe I can say the headaches have left me. I also was troubled with nervousness. I am feeling fine now and do all my work myself. I am the mother of six, and manage an eight-room house without anybody to help. I feel that I am entirely well." Mrs. Adolph Bratke, 4316 So. 13th St., So. Omaha, Nebraska.

Remember this package. None genuine without the signature of Lydia E. Pinkham.

MRS. BOLLERMAN'S CASE

West Hoboken, N.J.:—"I was troubled with headaches, weakness, flushes of heat to the face and head and loss of appetite. I would often get so weak I could hardly stand. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel stronger and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I am a well woman today, and feel like a different person. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me." Mrs. Jennie Bollerman, 611 E. Leventh St., Union City, New Jersey.
